

Eight Conference Teams To See Action on Final Day of Season

JACKETS GET BULL DOG PLAYS TODAY

EIGHT ELEVEN IN CONFERENCE PLAY SATURDAY

Hectic Southern Season Will Close With Games This Week.

Eight Southern conference, three S. I. A. A. and four unaffiliated eleven will unite in singing the swan song for Dixie football this week.

With the conference title already securely locked in the strong-box at Tulane, the three games scheduled inside the group will do little except to decide a couple of keen sectional rivalries.

Chief of these is the encounter at Athens between Georgia Tech and Georgia, although the annual tilt between North Carolina and Duke, to be held this year at Durham, is running a strong second from a standpoint of sectional interest.

Tennessee, which has not been defeated in three seasons, will be out to keep its record clean when it meets South Carolina at Knoxville. Maryland and Western Maryland, two old state rivals, play at Baltimore.

Florida's Aligators are booked in an inter-sectional contest with the University of Oregon at Miami. The coast eleven is on its way to the south and will reach Miami in time for a drill Friday afternoon.

The only S. I. A. A. game—between Southwestern Louisiana and Louisiana Poly—has no bearing on the association championship which is being generally awarded to Chattanooga, for the second consecutive year.

The Moccasins have one more victory to their credit than any of the six other unbeaten teams in the S. I. A. A.

Virginia interest centers on the clash at Richmond between Hampden-Sidney and the Indians of William and Mary, while New Orleans fans will turn their attention to the meeting of Centenary and the rugged Loyola eleven.

Riegels Named All-Coast Center

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(P)—Roy Riegels, California captain and center, who last year made his famous gridiron dash—in the wrong direction—this year overcame as great a mental handicap any player has labored under to smash his way through a spectacular season. Today, he was named the popular choice of the field in the Associated Press All-Coast team.

Three University of California stars and as many from the University of Southern California won places on the 1929 All-Coast eleven. St. Mary's, Stanford, Oregon, Washington and Washington State each placed one man. More than 20 sports writers, coaches and officials from all parts of the far west aided in the selections. The selections:

FIRST TEAM.
Ends—Tupman, Southern California, and Muller, Stanford.
Tackles—Ackerman, St. Mary's, and Colbert, Oregon.
Guards—Schwartz, California, and Barragar, Southern California.
Center—Riegels, California.
Quarterback—Duffield, Southern California.
Halfbacks—Lom, California, and Hufford, Washington.
Fullback—Schwartz, Washington State.

SECOND TEAM.
Ends—Norton, California, and Ebding, St. Mary's.
Tackles—Schwartz, Washington, and Christensen, Oregon.
Guards—Shields, Oregon, and Hansen, Washington State.
Center—Stennett, St. Mary's, and Moffatt, Stanford.
Halfbacks—Stennett, St. Mary's, and Moffatt, Stanford.
Fullback—Smalling, Stanford.

Irish Receive Noisy Welcome

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 2.—(P)—More than 3,000 Notre Dame students and South Bend townsfolk stood in a driving snowstorm this afternoon to give a rousing welcome to Notre Dame's undefeated football squad, upon its return from its triumph over the Army at New York Saturday.

With the train bearing the Ramblers delayed more than an hour a seething crowd of boisterous welcome stamped and shouted, and sang Notre Dame songs in an effort to keep warm. The Notre Dame band, which returned on a special train Sunday night, entertained the mob with the Notre Dame "Hike" song until the train arrived.

Oregon Gridders Arrive Here Today

Oregon University's football team, a far place from here, will arrive in Atlanta this morning at 7 o'clock, on its way to Miami for a game with Florida next Saturday.

The Oregonians will work out this afternoon on Grant field and leave at 8 o'clock tonight for Jacksonville. An elaborate program of entertainment has been mapped out for the far-western team and they will be honor guests tonight at a dinner at the Ansley hotel, headquarters for the team while here.

The team will remain in Jacksonville Wednesday and Thursday, working out there, and arrive in Miami on Friday morning. The University of Oregon is located at Eugene, Ore.

Two Southern conference football players have achieved All-American places on an authoritative eleven. They are Gene McEver, Tennessee halfback, and "Bull" Brown, Vanderbilt guard, who were placed on the first team selected by that quartet of famous coaches, Bill Roper, Dan McGugin, Howard Jones and Bob Zuppke.

The selections of these able coaches representing the best opinion in the east, south, middle west and far west always command respect. They make their nominations annually for The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Another quartet of coaches representing the same sections also will make an All-American selection soon and no doubt will name one or more southern players. It is possible that others than McEvers and Brown will be named.

The New York Evening Post on a nation-wide ballot of sports editors evolved an All-American team with Sington, Alabama tackle, and Banker, Tulane halfback, aboard. The New York Evening Sun had Banker and Brown on their second team on a similar system of selection.

The point is that southern football players are receiving annually more recognition for All-American honors. In other years it was an event worth an eight-column streamer when one southern player was placed on the late Walter Camp's eleven. Now one sort of expects an All-American berth to be won by a southerner.

And indeed with so many worthwhile All-American selections coming out every week, honors are more generally distributed and a closer approximation of justice done to worthy players in every section.

IRISH FIRST, OTHERS ALSO RAN.

In ranking football teams of the nation most of those who have dared produce a list agree that Notre Dame is to be ranked first. He would be a clever sword dancer who could trip any other measure.

The Irish played the hardest schedule of any team in America and played every game on the road, pending completion of their own stadium in South Bend. They played, too, without their coach.

Second guessers say that if Army had not thrown that third-down pass at the goal line that gave Jack Elder an opportunity to intercept and run 95 yards for the winning touchdown, Notre Dame would have been tied.

And, second guessers add, if Army had tried a running play then kicked a field goal Army would have been on top.

But none of those contingencies happened. Notre Dame beat the Army 7 to 0. Football games turn on innocent appearing plays.

MARGIN OFTEN SMALL.

Every week-end victory or defeat is balanced on the success or failure of a simple play from scrimmage, a skidding of a halfback to the turf when in the clear, the billowing of a jersey that makes a tackle possible, the premature sounding of a referee's whistle, the rolling punt that eludes the safety man's fingers by an inch and rolls out of bounds on the one-yard line—any one such occurrence may determine the winner.

A team MUST have a share of luck to go through a hard schedule without defeat.

Major Bob Neyland, coach of the Tennessee football team that has been undefeated since November, 1926, declared the other day that one of the requisites of a championship team was a break of luck on the day they were playing poorly. Notre Dame had just that.

None should complain at rating Notre Dame first. Let the debate, if any, be centered on the allotment of second and third and fourth places.

TULANE IS "IT."

The season ranking in the Southern conference is usually an exhibition of primary mathematics. Tulane was the only team that played a conference schedule of proportions that finished undefeated and untied. Tulane certainly has first place.

Tennessee with one tie and one game yet to play certainly is sitting in second place. Ranking the others would not be easy, but fortunately there is no demand whatever for it.

It was Walter Hagen, I believe, who uttered the noble sentiments: "Who wants second place, anyhow?" or words to that effect.

FLORIDA CARRIES ON.

While Tulane, the champion, has announced no strengthening in its mild conference schedule for next year, Florida is pursuing a firm policy in going after the strongest opposition in the organization.

Florida plays Georgia, Alabama, Georgia Tech and Tennessee in a row at the finish.

That is a stretch assignment that will command respect, and demand plenty of football.

THE BIG FOUR.

Georgia and Vanderbilt seem to have the strongest freshman teams in the section and may be expected to acquire plenty of reserves next fall. Tennessee and Kentucky lose few stars. Tab these four teams to furnish most of the competition next season.

Young Refuses Coaching Post Pietkiewicz Off To Race in U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—(P)—Louis A. Young, for seven years head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania, today declined re-election as coach and will become assistant to the chairman of the council on athletics at Pennsylvania.

Sydney E. Hutchinson is chairman of the council. No announcement was made as to who will succeed Young as head coach.

HAGEN FORCED TO PLAY - OFF IN P.G.A. MEET

Champion Tied With Four Others for Last Two Places.

By Walter Hagen.

British Open Golf Champion. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 2.—(North American Newspaper Alliance.)—Our professional golf championship got off today with an appropriate theatrical Hollywood start when five players, myself included, found, after the regular 36-hole qualifying rounds had been played, that we had to go out again and battle for the last two places in the first round of match play.

It required a score of 148 to get in outright and five of us who did 149 played off until darkness stopped the affair, with Bill Mehlhorn, Henry Cuici and myself still working for the last two places.

Either Henry, Bill or myself will be a spectator tomorrow and we have to get out on the fifth tee at 8:30 o'clock. They tell me I can't be late this time.

LOWEST SCORE.

It was somewhat unfair for the five golfers, who had taken 149 to play the two qualifying rounds, to grab the spotlight from Fred Morrison, the Southern California golfer who won the medal with 136, the lowest score ever made in a P. G. A. qualifying round. His 65 in the afternoon was easily the best thing of the day but the crowd found more excitement in watching five of us in a "tough spot" trying to wiggle out, than in Morrison's remarkable figures.

Some of the dramatics were eliminated before dark and I felt sorry for Al Houghton, of Baltimore, who went out at the first hole when he took a five while the rest of us had fours, and for Valdo Crowder, who stuck along until the long fourth where he pulled his third from a heavy lie to the left of the green and took a six to our five.

At the first hole I had a golden opportunity with about a 10-foot putt for a three after all the boys had played their third, but I couldn't make it.

Some of the actors in the gallery seemed to think that I had laid back for the playoff and even during it that I was waiting for the proper moment to drop a putt and steal the act; but I would have given the whole act to anybody, even Bobby Jones, to have been sitting in the locker room telling funny stories and getting the report of the playoff by messengers.

I have played in this championship eight times and never failed to qualify. I still have a chance to make it but the situation is not one to promote a restful night.

The scores for the playoff to date:

Holes	1	2	3	4	5
Mehlhorn	4	3	4	5
Hagen	4	3	4	5
Lowder	4	3	4	5
Houghton	4	3	4	5
Cuici	4	3	4	5

The important things about this playoff were these: At the first hole, Houghton pulled his second to the left of the green and took a five. At the second Cuici was the only one not on the green off the tee, but he had a good second and holed a six-foot putt to stay with us. At the third Mehlhorn's second was over the green, but he chipped back and obtained his four. At the fourth Crowder's third was pulled and missed the green and it cost him his chance to qualify.

Have no excuse to offer for not getting in, for I played a 70 in the morning and then began to loaf, taking 30 to go out. At the 11th hole I had a five-footer for a four, missed and then tapped the ball three more times before it dropped. This cost me a seven.

BAD NEWS.

At the 10th hole they told me it looked like 148 would qualify and I put my tee shot into a bunker. This was bad news, for I needed three, four, four for 148. I might have been out right there, but I managed to get a three by playing a good out four feet above the hole and sinking the putt for a three.

At the finish I had to lay a chip shot close to the hole for a five and a total of 149 to get into the playoff. And to think on the 11th hole I hit the ball three times for six inches to the back of my putter. It probably will serve me right if I fail to qualify tomorrow when Mehlhorn, Cuici and myself resume operations.

Leo Dietz, the defending champion, played 71-69—140 to win second place in the qualifying round. Johnny Farrell, open champion just before Jones grabbed that title at Winged Foot, just wiggled in with 148. Al Espinosa, runner-up for the open title to Jones, is in with 143, playing fine golf.

Seven members of the Ryder Cup team, all but Joe Turnesa, Ed Dudley and myself, qualified for the match play.

The draw for the first round match

Morris Named Smithie Leader

Herman (Mutt) Morris, star tackle on the 1929 Tech High football team, was named captain of the 1930 eleven. It was in the last game of the season for Tech High.

Morris is a brother of Hollis Morris, a former Tech High end and an end on University of Georgia's team several seasons ago. He has played good football all season, and his work was outstanding in the Boys' High-Tech High game.

Flankman Jackets Must Stop

Above is Herb Maffett, stellar end of the University of Georgia football team, who will face the Yellow Jackets at Athens Saturday afternoon in the final game of the season for both teams. Maffett has developed into one of the best ends in the south.

RAIN HOLDS UP FIELD TRIALS

Three Braces Run Off When Judges Call for Halt.

By Pat Hammond.

Constitution Staff Correspondent. WAYNESBORO, Ga., Dec. 2.—(Singing in the rain, it was the Georgia Field Trials Association. For it takes more than a steady flood to dampen the spirits of this cheerful bunch of dog lovers who have gathered here to watch 'em run and to pick the best of the hunting pooches entered in the event.

So tonight the well-known welkin is ringing with song despite the fact that the members' all-age stake was drowned out after but three braces had been run and the whole program delayed at least half a day.

The day has demonstrated another thing that field trial folk are a hardy lot and their charges, the hunting pooches, are capable of putting their heart-breaking efforts under almost impossible conditions.

DRENCHED CROWD.

Drenched to the skin, a crowd of half a hundred enthusiasts followed the dogs through drenched woods and sodden fields. The dogs, wet and miserable, raced through the water in an almost fruitless search for pointers that had better sense than to be abroad.

Only two heaves had been found when the trials were halted at noon on the judges' decision.

If tomorrow is clear the judges believe that the all-age and the derby in the members' stakes will be concluded by nightfall. Drawings for the open events, in which the best hunting dogs of the country will be entered, will be held Tuesday night.

No decision was made on the two braces and the bye-dog run today, the judges reserving their awards until the complete event is finished.

POINTERS ONLY.

The running today was confined entirely to pointers, who chanced to be the unfortunate selected to plough through the rain-soaked fields rather than their longer-haired rivals, the setters. Pointers owned jointly by J. K. Otley and Scott Hudson, of Atlanta, took part in three of today's races.

The first brace to be put down were Julia, a pointer bitch owned

Niehoff Files Claim Against Cracker Club

Action Brought at Chattanooga Minor League Meeting—Johnny Dobbs Seeking 6 Players.

By Ralph McGill.

With a claim already filed against the Crackers by Bert Niehoff for the odd sum of $666.66 (money and not a blood remedy) and with his majesty the Tsar, K. M. Landis, ready to review it, it is no wonder that the Cracker officials were scheduled to rush over to Chattanooga this morning.

No sooner did the new owners take a-holt, as we say back in the hills, than they ran into a law suit. This suit, however, will be decided by the important people in the Judge's court. They are all over there for the minor leagues' meeting, the greatest baseball show of them all, which gets started today. In fact it is so important that it got started last night; unofficially, of course.

It was not stated what Mr. Niehoff's claim was for, but it was evidently based on some idea of back pay, either as a bonus or payment for the sale of some player. Rell J. Spiller was all set to investigate. With him were Chas. Robert and Bobby Jones, new president and vice president, attending their first baseball meeting. If Bert Niehoff gets his money it will be necessary for the Junior Chamber of Commerce to rush in some 600 more cash customers on opening day.

The Crackers hope to complete their club at the luncheon meeting. Or just about complete it. Johnny Dobbs announced last night that he had some dogs about ready to complete. Rell J. Spiller admitted joyfully that there were some all set, waiting only the word from Mr. Dobbs, who has been given absolute authority in the matter of getting new players.

SIX NEW ONES.

The Crackers hope to get six players at this meeting over at the minor league meeting. Which is a tip-off on the fact that they intend using some few of the boys who were doing chores for Mr. Bill Good last summer.

The identity of the six new boys is said to be all known to the Cracker officials, but they are waiting for the final papers before tickling the eyes of the baseball reading public.

"I have told Dobbs that the new owners want him to go ahead and get the ball players he wants," said the Cracker vice president and business manager last night. That official is Mr. Spiller. "He has some lined up. We will probably not complete the club before spring training camp is started but we hope to get most of the players over at this meeting."

The Brunswick Chamber of Commerce is said to be struggling to decide whether the Crackers will be enough of an asset from an advertising standpoint.

The first brace to be put down were Julia, a pointer bitch owned

INJURED MEN WILL BE READY FOR BIG PUSH

Tech Players Prepare With Determination To Win—Ga. Favored.

By Ralph McGill.

Georgia Tech's football squad splashed through a short scrimmage yesterday afternoon at the Platts in preparation for the Georgia game on Saturday at Athens.

While any mention of injuries on the squad of a team already rated short in the odds is usually met with wise smiles, the following facts stood out yesterday like a couple of sore thumbs:

Vance Maree, the Solid Man of the line, spent the afternoon in the training quarters having an injured foot treated.

Stumpy Thomason, the gallant little half, was in uniform but did not work. He was given a day's rest, for fear of any possibility of staleness.

A BAD EYE.

Earl Dunlap ran the team in the scrimmage with one eye heavily bandaged. Unaccustomed to having one-half of his vision cut off, Dunlap received several cracks in the scrimmage from his "blind side."

Joe Westbrook, veteran guard, was absent. He was lying in a hospital bed where a bruised leg is getting treatment.

These injuries are a backwash of the Auburn game. It seems that the Tiger really had some claws after all.

READY SATURDAY.

All these injured men are expected to be ready for action Saturday at Athens. Joe Westbrook is the only man unlikely to be and the last word from the hospital was that he would be released Wednesday. Just what the effect of his confinement will be is problematical. Beyond healing his leg it will hardly be beneficial. A hospital bed takes about as much out of a man as a football game so far as stamina is concerned.

Monday's short scrimmage was devoted entirely to the offense with Warner, Pipkin and McKee replacing the absent players. Colonel William Fincher was in charge of the work-out and he made it brief, refusing to run the risk of an epidemic of colds.

FORMATIONS TODAY.

They will get the Georgia formations today, will the Jackets. William A. Alexander, back from an All-American team conference at South Bend, will distribute the reports of scouts, including those made by Mack Tharpe and Mike Miles, at the Alabama game last Thursday.

Maree and Thomason are expected to be in action today unless Trainer Mike Chambers decides otherwise. Maree declared his foot felt all right to him after the treatment yesterday.

A GREAT GAME.

It requires tradition to make great football games. Saturday's game up Saturday has as much of it as any game on the football schedules of the nation. The injuries at Tech are not serious enough to impair the team's morale. They are looking forward to receiving the Georgia formations with something akin to eagerness.

There is an air of grimness about the Platts as the Saturday game draws near. Tech's football team feels that its odds are good. Tech alumni are confident. They have a certain confidence regarding it. Georgia has won just one of the four games played since relations were resumed in 1925 and the Jackets have the confidence that those victories have distilled.

INTEREST GROWS.

Despite the foul weather, interest is growing. This spirit of the Jackets is largely responsible. Tech, clinging to the belief that the team, buffeted about by the storms of adversity, will find itself in this game and that they will win Saturday.

Meanwhile Harry Mehre and Frank Thomas are driving their charges along. Cold and rain forced them inside yesterday but they got a workout—just the same.

Georgia's dynamic team that seemingly reached its peak against Alabama on Thursday is in its favorite in the Saturday game. Tech's comeback proclivities, however, have an influence at Athens and Mehre is telling his team that they are ready to underdog that the only time they have been favorites they have lost.

ALUMNI INSPIRED.

The victory over Alabama stamped the Bulldogs as one of the finest teams in the conference. Defeat of Alabama, one of Georgia's arch rivals, stirred the Georgia alumni as nothing has done in years. All the

Ten Bulldogs Close Careers

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 2.—(P)—Ten members of the Georgia football squad will end their collegiate football careers at Athens Saturday, when the Bulldogs play Georgia Tech in the final game of the season.

Eight regulars, headed by Captain The Boland and two reserves, are among those who will end Georgia molehills for the last time this week.

Benny Rothstein, fullback; Henry Palmer, end; Theodore Friese, tackle; Tommy Paris, quarterback; Red Smith, end; Bryant and Stelling, tackles, and Captain Boland, the center, are the first-stringers who will hang up their cleats, while two reserves who will be playing their final game are Tommy Gerding and Jack Jackson.

Army Begins Work For Stanford Game

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 2.—(United News.)—Army's football team today began light practice for the Stanford game at Palo Alto, Cal., December 28. The squad received a rousing reception on its return home after the Notre Dame game. While the players will remain in strict training, they will do only the easiest sort of work for several days.

Prep Teams Get Down To Work for Strenuous 1930 Court Drive

G. M. A. To Meet Cubans Wednesday

Boys' High, Under Johnson, To Hold First Practice of Year This Afternoon.

By Roy White.

With the fading of the prep football season, basketball practice will be ushered in today in several camps, while others are expected to take up next Monday afternoon.

Georgia Military Academy, under the direction of Coach Sam Burdage, began its cage work last week and already four days' work have been completed. Practice at G. M. A. will be held up tonight, for the Cadets meet a team from Cuba Wednesday night on the Tech court. It is a part of the good-will program planned for the visitors while in the city.

Dave Johnson has sounded the alarm for the boys' high school team to open this afternoon at Boys' High. There will be no actual work today, but a check over the material available for the 1929-30 team will be made this afternoon. Active practice at Boys' High will begin tomorrow.

Coach Claude Tolbert, of Tech High, stated last night that basketball practice at Tech High will not start until next Monday afternoon.

Both Boys' High and Tech High will use the Henry Grady court back of the school and they will alternate. One team will use the court from 2 to 4 one week and the other will use it from 4 to 6, alternating the next week.

CADETS FLASH

Although they have had only four days of practice, the G. M. A. team is shaping up well and showed plenty of speed and accuracy at shooting baskets Monday night on the Tech court. Captain Suddeth, end on the football team, is in excellent condition and covered the floor well in scrimmage Monday. He played the running guard position.

Norman Hackney, quarterback on the football team and a brother of the former University of North Carolina basketball stars, played center and promises to be one of the best in the prep league. The forward positions on the cadet five are very much undecided at present. Several promising youngsters are staging a merry scramble for the places.

Another practice will be held tonight, at which time Coach Burdage will make known his lineup for the game Wednesday night.

LETTERMEN RETURN

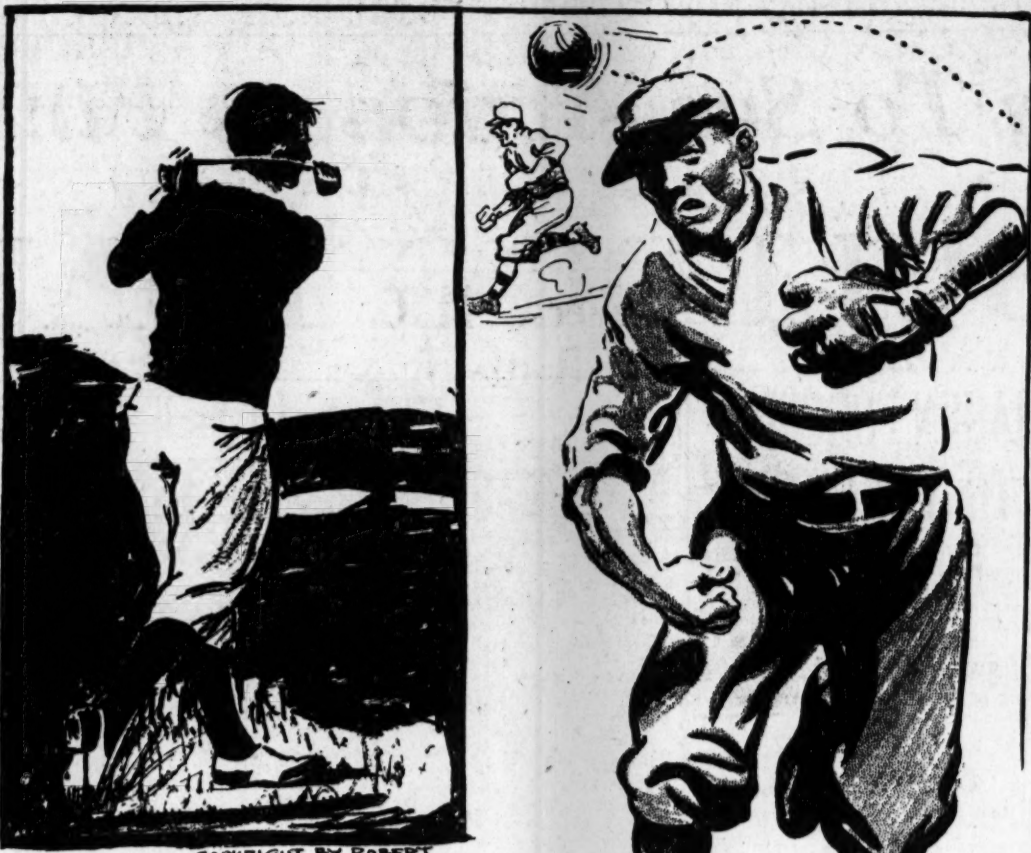

Four lettermen will be returned to the Boys' High team, but will not get into the work until after the G. I. A. A. football championship game has been played. Captain Bill Starston, "Kitty" Katz, Gatlin and Brewer, all veterans of 1928, are on the football team. Smith, from Hoke Smith Junior High, and Stacy, from Joe Brown Junior High, are promising candidates for the Boys' High team. Both were outstanding in junior high circles last season and should go well with Boys' High this year.

Coach Tolbert will have four lettermen back from 1928. Captain English, a forward; Callis, at center; Chambers at forward, and White, a forward, will seek to retain their positions. Heavy Hammond is expected to be a candidate for one of the guard positions.

University School for Boys, Marist, Fulton, Commercial High and Deatur High are expected to start basketball within the next few days.

EASTERN TEAMS RANKED HIGH

Pitt Has Strongest Claim on Sectional Title This Season.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(AP)—The climactic games of the eastern football campaign served to seal Pittsburgh's claim to the sectional championship and at least a share in the national title and to give strength to Colgate's claim to high ranking along with Pittsburgh and Fordham. The Army, by its showing against Notre Dame at the Yankee stadium Saturday, convinced 83,000 spectators that the Cadet eleven which lost 7 to 0, deserved consideration for a place in the top flight for that particular afternoon at any event.

As these eleven fought their way to the top at the fall of the curtain Cornell and Dartmouth sagged out of the leading half-dozen by losing at the finish. Pennsylvania, wore down Dobbie's lighter eleven to take the Thanksgiving Day classic at Franklin field by 17 to 7. And a rejuvenated Navy team, led by the thrusts of Lew Kinn, smashed the Dartmouth defenses for a 13-to-6 victory on the same battleground. The big Green took this game as something of an anticlimax and played accordingly.

Villanova rallied in the final period to take a 16-to-0 decision from Temple and Boston college surprised its followers with a 12-to-0 victory over a highly regarded Holy Cross eleven. Except for special holiday games which may be arranged on the Pacific coast, the engagements Saturday closed all but four eastern schedules. Western Maryland, still technically the leader with ten victories and no defeats, has Maryland remaining upon its chart for next Saturday and Carnegie Tech and the Army face trips to the west coast to meet Southern California and Stanford, respectively. Davis and Elkins will play Oklahoma City in Oklahoma City Saturday.

The showing of the Army against Notre Dame's undefeated and untied eleven in Saturday's headline game came as a surprise, perhaps to all save those connected with the football family at West Point. The Army not only gained a great degree of fame for itself, but also saw Christian Keener Cagle go on to new heights in his valiant career.

Although it was Cagle's pass that Jack Elder intercepted to run 95 yards for the winning touchdown in the second period as the Army threatened Notre Dame goal, the Louisiana red head closed his career with enough brilliant feats to stamp him as one of the very great of all times.

In the actual won and lost standing, Western Maryland shades Pittsburgh with ten victories to nine, but the Oriole eleven has played a minor league schedule, with the exception of games against Georgetown and Temple. Western Maryland further has shown a tendency to slacken its speed in recent games.

Davis and Elkins, Duquesne, leader of the undefeated class with Pittsburgh and Western Maryland, but each has suffered at least one tie game.

Colgate, which trounced Brown by 32 to 0 on Thanksgiving Day, is next with eight victories and one defeat. The Maroon further leads the country in offense with 315 points to its credit.

Scheffer Heads Vandy in 1930

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Joseph H. Scheffer, left end, was elected captain of the 1930 Vanderbilt Commodore football team tonight at the annual banquet tendered the 1929 squad by the Vanderbilt Athletic Association. He succeeds Captain John H. (Bull) Brown, guard. Scheffer is a Nashville boy, and a senior. He played his second year with the team this fall. Bill Schwartz, right end, was elected alternate captain.

G. M. A. Works For Cubans

Double time at football and basketball is the motto for G. M. A. athletes this week. The Cadets will meet the Cuban basketball team Wednesday night on the Tech court and Friday night on Grant field in the first night football game for Atlanta G. M. A. will play the University of Havana football team.

The Cubans will arrive in the city Wednesday afternoon on a "good will" tour and will be met at the train by a large crowd of Atlanta citizens. A parade through the streets of the city soon after the arrival will be a feature of Wednesday's reception.

Coaches Padgett, Burbage and McQuarrie work with the football players early in the afternoon and early each night out on the Tech court in preparation for the Cuban invasion. Double practices have been going on for several days, but the basketball preparation will be ended with tonight's practice.

Reports from Florida, where the Cuban football team was defeated, 9 to 0, by the University of Florida reserves, indicate that G. M. A. will have no setup. The Cadets are in for one of the hardest games of the season Friday night.

It will be the first night football game ever played in Atlanta. The game is expected to start at 7:30 o'clock and will be played on Grant field beneath the rays of 48 powerful lights. There have been several scrimmages on the field early at night, but Friday's game will be the first real test for the night football games in Georgia.

Grid Ending Draws Near

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(United News.)—The 1929 football campaign will reach a virtual end Saturday in a group of a dozen games, most of which are scheduled for points south of these wintry climes.

The Maryland-Western Maryland game at Baltimore will be the farthest north this week-end. The games of Saturday are topped by the Georgia-Georgia Tech contest at Athens. Miami has a fine intersectional tilt in the Florida vs. Oregon affair.

Davis and Elkins, unbeaten, will appear in Oklahoma City to play Oklahoma City, in a second intersectional.

Other games of the south include Tennessee vs. South Carolina, Duke vs. North Carolina, Louisiana Tech vs. Northwestern Louisiana Institute, Loyola of New Orleans vs. Centenary, Southern vs. Mercer, William and Mary vs. Hampden Sydney.

Tulsa will play Haskell at Tulsa.

PORAT BEGINS WORK FOR BOUT

Norwegian Meets Scott in Christmas Fund Bout Next Monday.

By Frank Getty.

United News Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(United News.)—A long, lean, lantern-jawed Norwegian lad came to town Monday and took up training quarters preparatory to planting a ponderous right fist smack into the middle of the muddled heavyweight situation.

Otto Von Porat's immediate objective is the somewhat fragile chin of Fireman Phil Scott, whom he will meet on the Christmas fund card December 9.

Next Monday night's bout should go some ways toward clearing up the scramble for Gene Tunney's relinquished title. Aside from Jack Sharkey, who is ready and willing, and Maxie Schmeling, who is neither, Scott and Von Porat seem about the best of a mediocre lot of heavyweights. Their 12-round bout may produce a more or less logical opponent for Sharkey at Miami this winter.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

Scott is up there in the first rank by virtue of the insistence of his cocky little manager, James Joy Johnston, who has a way of getting what he wants in fistie affairs hereabouts. Phil shivered his way to a decision over the Argentine mountain, Vittorio Campolo, and scored a moral victory over Schmeling when the German heavyweight declined to meet him.

There is no doubt but that Scott can outbox Otto, whose mental processes are not notoriously rapid. But how that Norwegian can smack them on the potato! It won't take more than one to make Scott do a Joe Beckett, if it lands right.

ANTICIPATED EVENT

In addition to the main bout, the Christmas fund show next Monday will include a long awaited fight between Maxie Rosenbloom, clown of the light-heavyweight division, and Yale Okun, a punishing brawler with title aspirations. The championship of this class is also vacant, and a decisive win for either man would bring him prominent recognition. They will box 12 rounds in the semi-final.

The complete card, announced Monday, follows:

Otto Von Porat vs. Phil Scott (12 rounds).

Maxie Rosenbloom vs. Yale Okun (12 rounds).

George Hoffman vs. Marty Gallagher (10 rounds).

Jerry Pavlic vs. Raoul Bianchi (8 rounds).

Ed Steele vs. Bill Daring (4 rounds).

Hoffman is the former amateur heavyweight champion who has been doing well as a pro, while Gallagher hails from Washington, D. C. Bianchi is a new Argentine heavyweight, while Steele is one of the latest arrivals from England to try his luck in the unlimited division.

ing standpoint to justify the necessary financial outlay. They have promised to send word to the Cracker officials today. The word "Bunsen" on an Associated Press and United News date line each day is worth something. The ball players, training without pay, won't spend much, but the advertising is worth something of an intrinsic nature.

MOST IMPORTANT

Most important news of the week is that Rell J. Spiller, disguised as a small hill, shot a deer at Dover Hall just before coming to Atlanta Sunday. This means that a new deer's head will adorn the walls of the office at Spiller park.

For some years a thin-necked deer's head has been on the wall. Three years ago the deer wore a 16-size collar. Last year the deer was wearing a 14 collar and was very discouraged looking about the eyes. Visiting firemen of the press and other baseball clubs used to look at the deer, burst into sobs and take some stimulant. The deer's head has probably caused more sorrow than any other deer in the baseball world. It will now be replaced and the visiting firemen will have to find another excuse.

FORMER MANAGERS

Over at Chattanooga are gathered two former Cracker managers. Bert Niehoff, seeking more Cracker money and a new job, and Wilbur Good, the 1929 manager.

Judge Landis, Ty Cobb, representatives of all the major league clubs, sporting goods salesmen and minor league men to the number of 700, are also there. The Chattanooga club is host. And a good one. You'd never know now that a new deer's head will adorn the walls of the office at Spiller park.

Important baseball legislation is coming up for consideration. The minor league meeting is always the big baseball show. Beside it the major league meetings pale into insignificance.

Pleas Heard By Board.

By Brian Bell.

Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Baseball shoved football out of the sports picture today for four days at least, when the hosts of the minor leagues gathered in their annual meeting. The National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues holds its first session Monday, but the ball was started rolling today when the national board of arbitration, the supreme court of minor league baseball, convened.

The board of arbitration will meet again tomorrow afternoon when the appeal of George Toporcer, of the Rochester club of the International league, will come up, with the appellant appearing in person to ask a review of the action of M. H. Sexton, president of the national association, in suspending him from organized baseball for one year. Toporcer was fined $200 and suspended as the result of a disturbance he is alleged to have created during the "little world series" at Rochester. Billy Southworth, manager of the Rochester club, was fined $500 and he joins in the appeal to the board. Southworth, too, is in Chattanooga for the hearing tomorrow.

NEW MEMBER.

At the first meeting of the board of arbitration J. Alvin Gardner, Wichita Falls, Texas, was elected a member of the board to succeed the late J. Doak Roberts, who died recently while serving as president of the Texas league.

The California winter league applied for membership in the national association but withdrew the application. It was found that it could not qualify under the constitution of the national baseball body, said J. H. Farrell, secretary-treasurer of the association and chairman of the board.

An application for a franchise in the Southeastern league was presented in behalf of Havana, Cuba, but action was deferred pending the arrival of Cliff Green, president of the league. In connection with the application from Havana, a discussion of airplane travel for baseball players came up and the board ruled that it would not sanction suspension of any timid players who decline to travel by airplane. The board must decide during its session who, if any one, won the championship of the Arizona State league. The case comes before the board on an appeal from Bisbee from a decision of President Fred Joyce declaring the decisive game for the pennant between Miami and Bisbee "no contest."

Thomasville Game Changed

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 2.—

The date for the annual football game between high school teams of Thomasville and Moultrie, scheduled to be played in the stadium here Friday, has been changed to Thursday by agreement between managers of the two teams. High school teams of Albany and Valdosta will battle in Albany next Friday and as the result of their game has final bearing on the championship for the Second District High School Association, the Thomasville-Moultrie game has been set up a day so that fans of these two towns may go to Albany to witness the Albany-Valdosta contest. Albany is now in the lead in the championship fight, but Cairo High is just a lap behind—the record of the latter school handicapped by a tie game played a short time ago with Bainbridge High school.

FUTILITY.

Tom got to his feet. Why was he here? What was he doing here? This only increased his pain. This was weakness itself. Vera read his resolve in his eyes.

"You're not going!"
"Yes."
She looked at him for a moment of sober silence, then suddenly flung herself down on the davenport and wept. He bent over her, put his hand on her shoulder, murmured broken phrases of consolation.

"O, don't be such a fool!" she snapped. "You don't even know why I'm crying."

He went out of the apartment slowly, shutting the door behind him. The apartment building itself seemed a place of loneliness. It was because of loneliness that Vera had wept, he told himself.

Returning to the club he saw the drunk still leaning against the bar, the bore still on the lookout for victims. They had no homes either, that was what made them sit there, passing hours of futility. No home! Tom pitied himself, and went up to the room he had taken.

He went to sleep, thinking of Suzanne less harshly than when she had left. He awoke in the morning with a thick tongue and a feeling of general low spirits. The day was endless. He looked back upon the previous evening and promised himself he wouldn't seek further release by such means. He hadn't the temperament for a man of pleasure.

He went that evening to a prize fight all by himself and later on played poker in the cardroom of the club. The prize fight seemed uninteresting to him, and he lost money at poker in a dull game. Had he sighed for pleasures like these? He thought of those quiet evenings in the small house, with Suzanne listening eagerly to every detail of the day's work. He remembered their long discussions about all the things they would do sometime—go abroad together, buy a co-operative apartment, ambitions like these. The light beneath the parchment shades would pick out her pretty and serious face. She would sit there with a pencil in her mouth, itemizing the upkeep of these castles in Spain.

He had not realized until now how profoundly she was part of his life. He had lived in perfect happiness until he had met her. And yet, now there was no happiness without her! Who else cared about him? She was all he had, his life.

He no longer attacked her, but instead attacked himself. How unjust he had been in this thing or how dull about that! He knew almost from the moment he saw her that she would go through with her plan. He knew better than Bruce that she would go on to his island off the shores of Tenby. But how long would she stay there? What was happening?

He read Bruce's brief wire over and over, when it came, trying to pierce behind its curt phrases. Then a longing to see her did come over him. He would gladly have given up, had he not promised himself not to yield. What difference did it make whether he saw Bruce or not? After all, their lives were too widely separated now. If Bruce made her unhappy, he should have let Bruce go. But it was too late now!

He sat down and began to write to Bruce, in reality only trying to clarify his own thoughts, get them down in orderly fashion. He tried to be just. He spoke of the way she had curtailed his simple pleasures. But after all that had been a pretty mean trick to play on her, for Bruce to pretend he was in love with her. It had been all right for her to flirt with Bruce!

"Let me hear from you," he wrote. "I want to hear everything. Has she mentioned me? Does she miss me at all? I'd give anything to have her come back. I'm blue, and I'm not particularly pleased with myself. Wire me if you can."

When he had finished the long letter and typed a plain envelope for it, he thought of dropping a word to Kathleen. He was glad Kathleen was up there, and not another girl. She was unselfish and kind. He wrote a short and formal note with affection between the lines. But he did not mention Suzanne in this letter.

He sealed and stamped the envelope. Outside his office window, New York roared with traffic and its endless game of barter. Was this all that life was about? But no, this, too, was in some way bound up with human love and tenderness, with homes and children.

He picked up the letters he had written. Then he was suddenly seized by a familiar obsession. All his life he had been haunted by the idea of getting letters mixed, sealed in the wrong envelopes. He knew perfectly well he had made no mistake. Yet, if by any chance he had—! That long letter to Bruce was like a confession. If that should happen to be in Kathleen's envelope!

In the end, irritated by his doubt yet unable to resist it, he lifted the still sticky flaps, and examined the letters. Of course he had been right! He put the letters back again and went out into the hall himself to drop them in the mail chute.

Unfortunately, the second time he had actually mixed the two letters!

Although the storm off Tenby had quieted by nightfall, the water was still somewhat rough on the following morning.

Bruce had found it necessary to gather new stores of wood, as he had burnt up all seasoned material with in reach of the house. He departed with an ax over his shoulder shortly after breakfast, and the wind carried the sound of his blows through the woods for an hour or so afterwards.

He had plenty to think about this morning as he worked. Suzanne, too, had become curiously repressed and silent, saying scarcely a word at breakfast. She had gone off by herself to the south shore, and Kathleen was for the moment alone.

Glancing out of the window, she saw that Captain Jones' launch was near the island. The little boat pitched on the short waves, was something hidden from view by a larger swell. Kathleen tugged on a sweater and went down to the cove to meet it.

This morning Captain Jones commented on the weather and explained his absence yesterday.

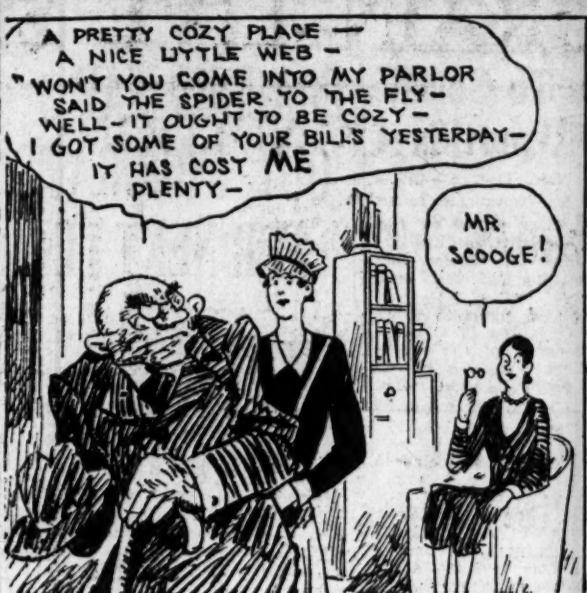

"I knowed it was going to blow up so as maybe I couldn't git back. And I didn't know for certain I'd be welcome to stay here."

This was a joke, and Kathleen obliged him by laughing.

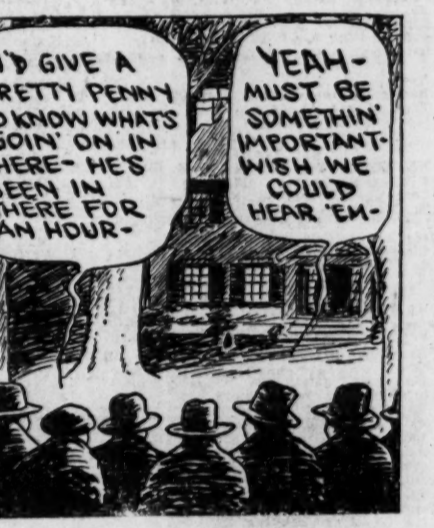

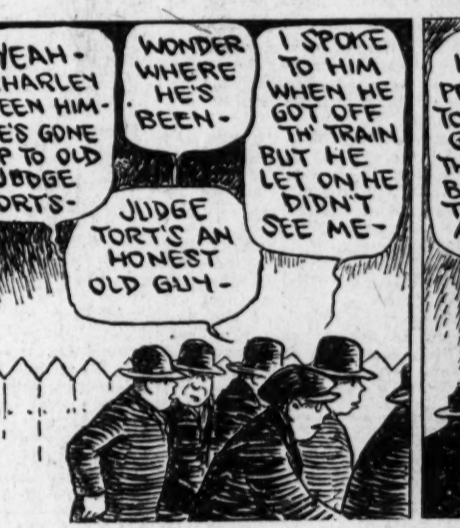

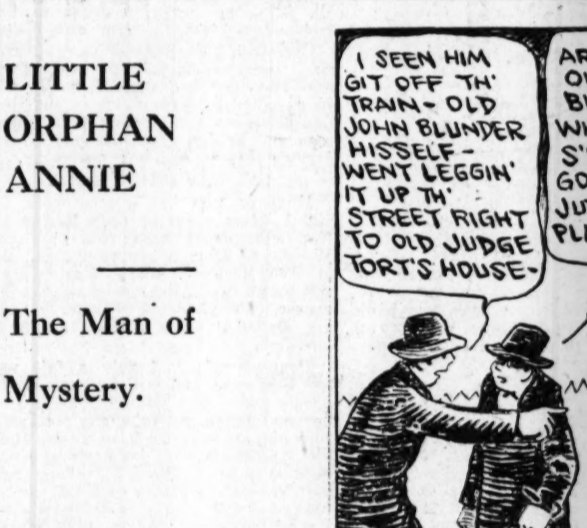

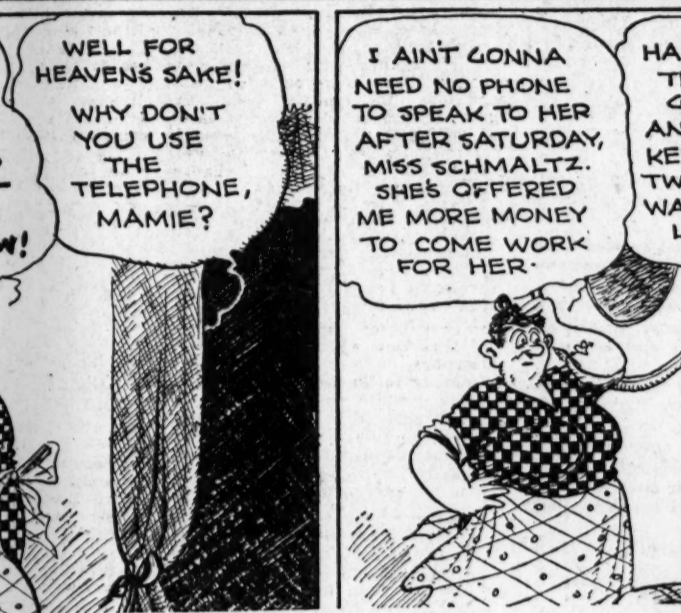

He turned the fly wheel of the engine over, and it coughed asthmatically. "The carburetor's bad," he muttered. "I got to do some work on it before I go back. I don't want to get to drifting out in the middle there—not with this tide!"

He passed up to her a sack of provisions. Then all at once his eye brightened. "Well to think of that!" he ejaculated. "I almost forgot! Here's some letters for you."

J. G. ADDY FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY

Last Rites for Prominent Decatur Man Set for 2:30 O'Clock.

DECATUR, Ga., Dec. 2.—(Special.)—Funeral services for J. G. Addy, of 232 West College avenue, who died at his home Sunday afternoon, will be conducted from the Decatur East Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, with the Rev. H. S. Smith and the Rev. Andrew Stead officiating.

Pallbearers will be Colonel George M. Napier, Eugene Allen, J. Howell Green, Sterling Elder, C. L. Lovejoy, Marcus Brown, Hal M. Stanley, J. A. McCarty, F. G. Hughes, W. Bayne Gibson, Hamilton Weeks, G. S. Watts, R. A. Alston, Paul C. Smith, William Cole Jones and Charles Carter.

Members of the board of stewards of the Fifth Methodist church, Pythagoras Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., Yaxxon temple and E. P. A. will serve as honorary escorts.

Interment will be in the Decatur cemetery.

Mr. Addy was a native of Senoia, Ga., where he engaged in mercantile business before moving to Decatur several years ago. Subsequently he was connected with the John Wiley Company, with the M. C. Kiser Company, and at the time of his death was associated with the J. K. Orr Shoe Company. He was a prominent member of the board of stewards of the Decatur First Methodist church and for eight years was its chairman.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs.

Atlanta Ministers Give Approval to Passion Play

NO APPLAUSE TO MAR PRESENTATION

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

No applause will accompany the presentation of the Passion Play, by the Freiburg Players, at the Atlanta Auditorium next week. A spirit of reverence will characterize the audience, and spectators have been asked to behave as they would in their own churches. Like a beautifully chanted prayer, a touching song, or an earnest sermon in a church service, the efforts of the actors in this great drama should not be met with applause, it is held. The production is characterized by profound religious sentiment, and the audience is requested to manifest the same attitude in their reception of it.

The Passion Play is non-sectarian in its appeal, and ecclesiastics of all denominations are approving it heartily. Father Michael A. Cotter, priest-in-charge at the Sacred Heart church, indorses the play, and states that it is a masterpiece of religious art, and that no one ought to forego it.

"In Europe," said Father Cotter, "observation of the Christmas season is far more religious in expression than in America. It is fitting that at this time of year we allow our religious impulses to be properly aroused by such an awe-inspiring spectacle, that no man, woman or child in Atlanta should miss it. It appeals to the religious sentiment and finer emotions of all mankind."

The Rev. W. H. Boggs, of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, also indorses the play, and states that it is a masterpiece of religious art, and that no one ought to forego it.

Another Atlanta minister to give his enthusiastic praise is the Rev. W. W. Memminger, of All Saints' Episcopal church. He said that the play is a masterpiece of religious art, and that no one ought to forego it.

"I admire the Passion Play from both a religious and a dramatic point of view. Religiously, it is unsurpassed in the stirring up of religious emotion, and dramatically, its power is unlimited."

The Passion Play of Freiburg is an awe-inspiring spectacle, convincing.

MRS. LUKE G. JOHNSON DIES AT HOSPITAL

End Comes After Illness Lasting Week—Last Services Today.

Mrs. Luke G. Johnson, of 10 Emory drive, wife of the Rev. Luke G. Johnson, beloved churchwoman and prominently identified in women's activities of the Methodist church for years, died Monday afternoon at Wesley Memorial hospital after an illness lasting a week.

Enjoying the distinction of being one of the first women ever sent to a general conference, Mrs. Johnson at the recent session of the North Georgia conference, was on the first ballot named to attend the forthcoming general conference of the body at Dallas, Texas, in May.

Before her marriage to Mr. Johnson, who is a retired minister, Mrs. Johnson was Miss Carrie Parks, of a distinguished Georgia family of educators.

For many years she was a member of the church women's council and attained national recognition for her work in inter-racial relations.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist church of Decatur, with the Rev. W. A. Shelton, of Emory University, Bishop W. B. Beauchamp and the Rev. R. L. Russell officiating. Burial will be in Decatur cemetery.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Johnson is survived by a daughter, Mrs. James W. Merritt, of Gainesville, a son, W. Parks Johnson, of Houston, Texas, and two sisters, Mrs. T. C. Bettendorf, and Miss Mary Parks, both of Chattanooga, Tenn.

MENZIES' FUNERAL TO BE HELD TODAY IN WILMINGTON

Funeral services for James Menzies, freight traffic manager of the Atlantic Coast Line railway, who died Sunday night in Wilmington, N. C., will be held there at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be taken to Blawenburg, N. J., for burial Wednesday at noon.

For many years, prior to, and after the World War, Mr. Menzies spent much of his time in Atlanta, attending sessions of the Southern Freight Association, and was well known in shipping and transportation circles.

Born in Scotland, Mr. Menzies came to America in his early youth, and later became connected with the plant system of railways, and for a number of years maintained headquarters in Savannah as general passenger agent of the system.

He removed to Wilmington when the Atlantic Coast Line system acquired the plant properties.

52 Motor Deaths In City This Year, Records Reveal

Unofficial statistics gathered by The Constitution from police records reveal that during 1929 up to November 30, 52 persons were killed in 146 accidents reported to police and 1,150 were injured, out of a total of 2,416 accidents reported.

November set a record for the year, with 10 persons killed, 146 injured, and 340 accidents reported.

Of the persons killed eight of them were white persons. They are J. H. Marchant, 23, of Buford, who was killed November 1 when his automobile crashed into a telephone pole on West View drive; W. J. Neville, 40, of Peachtree street, who was killed November 2, on Orme circle when his machine crashed into a telephone pole; W. A. Brower, of 784 Capitol avenue, who was killed November 4 at Flat Shoals and Sylvester road when his car overturned on a curve; J. T. Meacham, of a local hotel, who was killed November 8, when he was struck by an automobile at Trinity avenue and Forsyth street; Mrs. L. Flowers, 65, of 388 McDougall road, who was killed November 17, in front of the residence by a hit-and-run driver as she alighted from a street car; A. C. McClain, 55, of 515 Washington street, who was killed November 18, at Washington street and Richardson by a hit-and-run driver, and Miss Frances Frasier, 7, of 303 Park way, who was killed November 20 at Washington street and Richardson when she was struck by an automobile alleged to have been driven by John Farrell, of 87 Logan street.

June's record was best for the year, with only one death resulting from 183 accidents reported to police in which 91 persons were injured.

FINAL SERVICES FOR MISS BROWN IN FLORIDA TODAY

Funeral services for Miss Gertrude Alston Brown, who lived for many years in Decatur, will be held today in Madison, Fla., where she had lived for some time. Miss Brown died Sunday in a Thomasville hospital.

She was a daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Robert M. Brown, and a member of Decatur Presbyterian church. An uncle, Thomas H. Alston, resides in Decatur.

In addition to her brother, Miss Brown is survived by a sister, Mrs. Oliver H. B. Burroughs.

VOTERS TO DECIDE 5 CONTESTS TODAY

Two Councilmen, One Alderman and One School Commissioner To Be Named in 13th Ward.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.

Voters of Atlanta today will elect city officials to fill five contested posts in the local government, and, in addition, will be called upon to ratify democratic nominees for sixteen other positions.

There are fifteen qualified candidates for the five contested positions, four of which are for naming a whole delegation from the newly created thirteenth ward and the other for selection of a councilman from the first ward.

Polls will open at 7 o'clock this morning at twenty-nine precincts scattered throughout the city, and will remain open until 7 o'clock tonight.

A general manager of the Atlanta waterworks, three aldermen, ten council members and three members of the Atlanta board of education—all democratic nominees—are unopposed for election.

Pre-election predictions were that, despite the general interest in naming representation from the newly created thirteenth ward, including an alderman, two councilmen and a member of the board of education, less than 5,000 will visit the polls out of about 24,000 eligible voters.

The only other contest is for the councilman position from the second ward, in which Philip Breitenbush, elected by city council to fill the vacancy of Councilman Samuel Wardlaw, is opposed by Paul Gentry.

Alderman candidates from the thirteenth are Robert M. Cobb, Jr., at present a councilman from the ninth; Alvin Richards, a former member of council, and T. C. Beazmore. Only one is to be elected.

Seven are vying for the councilman honors from the thirteenth.
They are Ellis B. Barrett, former councilman from the fifth ward; J.
M. Collier, Oliver Dolvin, W. C. Jenkins, Parks Rusk, William S. Sanders and E. Stevens. Two are to be selected.

Aspirants for the school commissioner's position are Ivan G. Cochran, Will G. Moore and P. A. Whitehead.

All aldermen elected in the election today will serve four-year terms, and all councilmen, with the exception of the second highest in the councilmanic race from the newly created thirteenth, will serve three years. The runner-up in the thirteenth council race will serve two years. Terms of aldermen were extended by an act of the Georgia legislature from three to four years, and councilmen were given three-year terms instead of two.
In order to prevent two councilmen from the same ward from being elected at the same time in the future, however, from the thirteenth.

ATLANTA MAY ASK NEW OPEN HEARING IN GAS RATE FIGHT

Announcement Made by Murphy Following Filing of Brief With Public Service Commission.

A further public hearing on the proposed natural gas rates may be sought by the city of Atlanta and the cities of Decatur and Macon, with others interested, invited by Atlanta to participate in its protests, it was announced Tuesday by Alderman J. C.
Murphy, chairman of the special committee of the city council in charge of the matter.

The announcement was made following the submission of a brief incorporating the arguments of the city against the proposed rates with the Georgia public service commission.

Both the question of a public hearing and of inviting other cities to join with Atlanta in its stand will be discussed at a meeting of the special committee to be held the latter part of this week, Chairman Murphy stated. The date, due to the absence of several members of the committee from the city, has not been fixed.

"If a public hearing would assist the city in the presentation of its case, one will be asked," he said.
"The advisability of amending the brief filed with the commission Tuesday to include a request to reopen the case will be discussed at a meeting to be held this week."

The question of whether Decatur, Macon and other Georgia cities which are anticipating the advent of natural gas should be invited to join with Atlanta also will be discussed.
The interests of these cities are the same as those of Atlanta.

The Tuesday was taken under advisement by the commission.
Its arguments against the proposed natural gas rates, which would charge $1.80 for the first 1,000 cubic feet of gas in addition to the $1 service charge, as against $1.30 in the present rate, were classified under five headings.

They were:
1—Advertisements were inserted in newspapers by the Southern Natural Gas Corporation when the suggestion of natural gas for Atlanta was first made, under the heading, "Do You Want Cheap Gas?"

Among statements made in the advertisements were "four percent increase there will be made available to you promptly an ample and dependable supply of natural gas, having a heating value of approximately twice that of the artificial gas which Atlanta is now served."

A copy of the advertisement was attached to the brief and made a part of the protest.

2—Hearings were held before a com-

Hoover's Message Suggests Remedy For Nation's Ills

SENATE TO DECIDE ON VARE AT ONCE

Votes Down Motion To Delay Decision Until Report of Election Board Is Heard.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Threatened with a filibuster, the senate swept again into the 3-year-old dispute over the right of Senator-Elect Vare, of Pennsylvania, to a seat today after voting down a move for a week's delay by 43 to 31.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who moved for the week's delay, gave notice before the vote was taken that he would "feel compelled" to prevent a vote on the exclusion of Vare until the senate has first received a report from the elections committee on the contest brought against Vare's election in 1926 by his democratic opponent, William B.
Wilson. That report is not in prospect before late this week.

The democratic-republican independent coalition, which has a majority in the senate on the tariff bill, lined up almost solidly against Reed's motion, although Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, one of the republican independents leaders and the author of the resolution to exclude Vare according to his campaign expenditures, first proposed a postponement until next week.

During the lengthy wrangle over procedure, the senate agreed on motion of Senator Borah, of Idaho, another of the republican independents, to meet at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow and continue until 5:30 p. m. daily during consideration of the Vare case.

As Senator Norris began his argument against Vare on the basis of the report made by the committee which investigated his primary campaign and reported expenditures of more than $75,000 for the election, the senate elections committee went into session to consider a final report on the election contest brought by Wilson. It got into long after midnight to meet again tomorrow. The subcommittee investigated this contest has never disclosed its report but its members have indicated a majority oppose seating Wilson.

In offering to wait another week, Norris told the senate he thought the election contest should be settled prior to a vote on the question of Vare's eligibility because of his primary campaign expenditures. Senator Reed agreed to this. The Norris proposition was about to be approved.

ATLANTA MERCURY AT 13 AS ICY WAVE GRIPS SOUTHLAND

27 Deaths Are Recorded as Coldest Weather of Season Causes Suffering
in Dixie.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—A program weighted with specific recommendations was submitted to congress today by President Hoover who suggested legislation affecting tax reduction, more effective enforcement of prohibition, adherence to the world court and a multitude of questions touching the domestic and international concerns of the American people.

His annual message, which ran to 12,000 words and was his first state paper of the kind, set forth the alternative of naval limitations at the London conference or a six-year building program costing $1,500,000,000; emphasized the need for prompt reorganization of the administrative functions of government; asked for prompt settlement of the pending tariff question and greater generosity in a public buildings program throughout the country.

The president recommended a full time federal power commission rather than the present arrangement by which three cabinet members perform the duties of this body, asked that the federal radio commission be made a permanent body with its members chosen irrespective of zones, suggested the creation of a commission to negotiate contracts to set Muscle Shoals property working and an appropriation to begin work on the Boulder Canyon project in the Colorado river as soon as the government has completed the necessary power contracts.

Only a few paragraphs were devoted by the president to his tax reduction recommendations, which as previously announced, was for a straight cut of 1 per cent on individual and corporate income taxes.

To another question of major domestic interest, however, that of prohibition, Mr. Hoover gave extended consideration.

PERJURY CHARGES GO TO GRAND JURY

Alleged False Testimony in Macon Murder Trial
To Be Probed by Bibb Body.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Mrs.
Sarah Elizabeth Powers, 7, and Earl Manchester, 19, charged with the murder of James W. Parks, and James W. Schell, attorney for Manchester, will be called before the grand jury in the prosecution of T. S. Martin for perjury. Martin was a witness in the Manchester case. Schell stated today that Manchester had been given the death penalty under an old law for alleged perjury and that Solicitor Charles H. Garrett asked to resign if he does not prosecute Martin.

Martin, arrested at Forsyth last night on a warrant obtained by Schell, is being held in the Bibb county jail. No bond has been fixed.
Martin insisted today that he told the truth at the trial.

Martin testified that he was approached by Manchester a short time before the latter murdered James W.
Parks, 18, last May 27, and urged him (Martin) to slay the youth for $200. Manchester said that he had never seen Martin.

Mr. Garrett said today that Martin's testimony "didn't cut much ice in the prosecution of Manchester, because Manchester admitted that he murdered Parks. Manchester said,
"Mr. Garrett continued, "that Manchester gave him the death penalty under an old law for alleged perjury and that Solicitor Charles H. Garrett asked to resign if he does not prosecute Martin."

27 Deaths Are Recorded
as Coldest Weather of Season Causes Suffering
in Dixie.

Having struck Atlanta with a dull thud Tuesday morning, sending the mercury scurrying down to the lower regions until it found a stopping point at 33.2 degrees, the lowest figure of the present season, real wintry weather will remain in evidence here today despite the "fair and warmer" forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

A range from approximately 20 up to 35 or 40 is anticipated, which is some advance over Tuesday's extremes, but still cold enough to make overcoats exceedingly popular hereabouts. In any event, Mr. von Herrmann believes that the worst of the present cold snap is over and that beginning this afternoon a more southerly forecast of C. F. von Herrmann, local meteorologist.

Tuesday's maximum was an even 27 degrees, which is not a record, but still an unusually low top reading.
During the whole of last winter the thermometer failed to break 20.

The cold has been coming out of the northwest and still is heading south.
Mr. von Herrmann explained, but Atlanta has just about had her share for the time being. He expects freezing temperatures this morning as far south as Jacksonville and Atlanta as the wave continues to move southward. Here it will be swallowed up by the sunbath of a more southern climate to await the generation of more killers in the north.

Clear skies and a heaving sun helped to give a more pleasing aspect to the situation here Tuesday, but failed miserably as a warning agent as evidenced by the low maximum temperature. These same clear skies are scheduled to be on duty here again today, Mr. von Herrmann thinks, and should prove slightly more effective on the mercury in the official thermometer.

Deaths in South
REACH 27.

The south tonight still was fast in the grip of the cold wave which has taken 27 lives, but looked forward to tomorrow and promised moderating weather, after lower temperatures than have been experienced here, according to information gathered by the Associated Press.

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded in the mountains of southern Kentucky today and in north Tennessee the mercury sank below the zero mark, while elsewhere from the Ozark to the Atlantic and down to the Gulf of Mexico sub-freezing weather prevailed.

Barbourville, Ky., with an unofficial temperature of 12 below zero was believed to be the coldest spot in the United States this morning, and Clarksville, Tenn., reported reading of one below. Ice and snow-covered the mountains in both states and added to the suffering from the extreme cold.

New Orleans where ice is a rarity reported 27th death. Patrick J.
McShane, of Toronto, Canada, died in a van at a race track there and physicians said his death was due to a combination of exposure and intoxication.

The icy northwest winds that tipped the engine south had their effect in northwest Florida where at Pensacola the mercury slid down to 22 before coming to a rest and the Jacksonville weather bureau predicted the mercury for central Florida tonight, extending to the Everglades.

A measure of relief was in sight for the Mississippi valley states tonight where weather forecasts said
"not quite so cold," and the eastern section of the south was expected to feel warmer weather by tomorrow night, though freezing temperatures will prevail.

The cold wave rode in on a stiff northwest wind that whipped clouds before it, but the sun was ineffectual throughout the day.

COLD MODERATES IN MID-WEST.

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Relent-ing from the rigor that sent a wave of near zero weather over the middle states, the weather man offered a more moderate fare for the Great Lakes regions tonight but threatened the northwest states, chilled last night by a zero wave, with further temperature drops.

Chicago, where the coldest last night was one above zero, was promised tonight a minimum of 16. His temperature and possibly snow were forecast for the lake states.

In the northwest, where snow was forecast tonight, a minimum of 16. His temperature and possibly snow were forecast for the lake states.

CAPITAL AMAZED AT RUSS ATTITUDE

Treaty Signed at Border Town Returns to Status of 1924 Railway Management.

NIKOLSK-USSURIISKY, U. S. S.
R., Dec. 4.—(Wednesday)—(AP)— Moscow made the same end by reminding both Russia and China of their obligations under the Kellogg anti-war pact. The signing of a protocol under the Siberian town of Nikol-sk-Ussuriysky under the terms of the joint control of the railway would be restored in accordance with the treaties of 1924 was perfected. Russia withdrew from its insistence that the former Russian general manager and assistant manager of the road be reinstated, but reserved the right to appoint them to other positions.

The soviet government, in a note handed to French Ambassador Her-bette, in Moscow, stated that it could not regard as a friendly act the American note with reference to the Kellogg pact. It was stated that the note constituted "an unjustified attempt" to influence Chinese-Russian negotiations, coming as it did when these already were in progress, and that the soviet government had undertaken to give "advice and directions."

The agreement negotiated by Mukden presumably will be acceptable to Nanking since the provincial authorities have had authority to negotiate and since the protocol aimed to fulfill the conditions imposed by Nanking.

The soviet foreign threat, the central government turned its attention toward internal trouble. Reinforcements were rushed to beleaguered Canton, toward which rebellious Kwangsi troops and the famous "Ironsides" division of General Chang Fak Wei were driving. These had reached a point 40 miles northwest of the city and severe fighting was said to be in progress.

Government airplanes were playing an important role in the defense of the commercial centers.

The memorandum was in answer to notes from both the United States and Great Britain recently delivered to Moscow, the purpose of which had found support with most of the nations signatory to the Kellogg pact which had been undertaken to give "advice and directions."

M. Litvinoff emphasized that the United States had appealed to the soviet government at a time when direct Mukden-Soviet negotiations were being carried on by agreement.

THE ALL-SOUTHERN CONFERENCE ELEVEN FOR 1929

The All-Southern Conference Eleven for 1929 will be published in The Atlanta Constitution Sunday, December 8. The board of selection, composed of the sports editors of seven southern newspapers, met recently in Birmingham, Ala., for a preliminary conference. Their final decision on the make-up of the team was made after the Thanksgiving Day games were over.

Ed Danforth, of the Atlanta Constitution.
Morgan Blake, of The Atlanta Journal.
Zipp Newman, of The Birmingham News.
Bob Phillips, of The Birmingham Age-Herald.

C. E. VAUGHN ENDS LIFE WITH PISTOL BULLET

Commits Suicide on Front Doorstep of Brother-in-Law's Home.

C. E. Vaughn, 35, of Conyers, ended his life at 8 o'clock Tuesday night when he fired one shot into his right temple with a .38-caliber pistol on the front doorstep of the home of his brother-in-law, H. A. Hollingsworth, 225 Storall street, according to reports of Call Officers E. H. Norwood and M. O. Evans.

Hollingsworth is said to have told officers that the family had finished their supper, and Vaughn, who was a visitor in the home, walked out on the front porch.

A short while later, Hollingsworth told police, his little daughter came to him and said, "Daddy, I heard something pop." Going out on the porch he found the body of Vaughn crumpled on the steps.

Police were told that Vaughn had been apparently in good spirits prior to taking his life and that he could advance no reason for his act.

The body was taken to the chapel of Harry G. Poole, where a coroner's inquest will be held by Coroner Paul Doneho at 9:15 o'clock this morning.

Skull Fractured.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 3.—(AP)—A man believed to be Mike McLaughlin, of New York city, suffered a fractured skull after being struck by an automobile last night. Lonnie Foster was detained by police. Officers said McLaughlin was without funds and that identification was made by a name tattooed on his arm.

Firestone Tri-Motor Ford Arrives on Tour of South

The tri-motor Ford of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, which arrived here Tuesday, and, inset, William McConnell, pilot of the big ship.

High officials of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company's sales organization arrived in Atlanta Tuesday, when the huge tri-motor Ford monoplane owned by the rubber manufacturers settled down gracefully at Candler field, marking the third time it has been seen by habitués of the local airport.

Piloted by William McConnell, diminutive flier, who recently completed a five-month tour of the United States and Canada, covering 41,895 miles, or an average 270 miles a day in the Firestone transport plane, the ship now is engaged in a scheduled five-day tour of the south.

L. R. Jackson, general head of the sales organization; W. G. Manley, southern sales manager; and E. C. Henke, of the advertising department, are the passengers who left Akron with Pilot McConnell Sunday. Barring any mishap—and the plane has a record of not having sustained the slightest accident in its many thousands of miles of travel—the tri-motor ship will be back in Akron Thursday. In the meanwhile it will have put into port at Nashville, Birmingham, Atlanta, Jacksonville and Charlotte, covering 2,510 miles.

Mr. Jackson and Mr. Manley are visiting the Firestone branches at the route cities. In Atlanta they inspected the Firestone one-stop super-service plant, which is just being completed at a cost of $250,000. They will leave here this morning for Jacksonville. The stop prior to Atlanta was Birmingham, the ship having negotiated the hop between here and there in one hour and 15 minutes, aided by a strong tail wind.

REPEAL OF DRY LAW AGITATION RENEWED

Hoover Message Starts Both Sides Hashing Over Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Prohibition talk was heard in congress with more frequency than ever today after President Hoover's assertion in his message that enforcement of the dry laws was "far from satisfactory."

Local interest centered on his remarks that the "District of Columbia should be the model of city law enforcement in the nation," and "there is need for legislation in the district supplementing the national prohibition act."

Chairman Capper, of the senate district committee, termed the president's expression "timely" and predicted needed legislation would be enacted.

Representative Schaefer, republican, Wisconsin, wet, said that judging from the records of the police chiefs throughout the country, Washington already was a model city.

Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, author of the prohibition amendment and of a proposal to make the purchaser of liquor equally guilty with the seller, declined to comment until he had had more time to study the specific recommendations of the president.

Representative La Guardia, republican, New York, a wet, was quick to answer the president's hope for strengthening of enforcement agencies. His recommendations "will simply entail a cost of millions of dollars with no change in results," he said. "The American people will do well to take heed and repeal this law, which cannot be enforced."

Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, another of the wet group, said "something more than reorganization of administration is necessary to remove the constant increasing destructive evils of prohibition."

ed States senator from Wyoming to succeed the late Francis E. Warren. Sullivan, a republican, was appointed by Governor Frank S. Emery, who announced that the new senator would serve until a successor is chosen at a special election to be held, probably next month.

Rotarians Sketch Lives of Three Great Georgians

The birthdays of three famous Georgians were commemorated at a meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday, when members of the organization spoke on Robert Toombs, Henry Grady and Joel Chandler Harris.

Joel Chandler Harris, Jr., gave some aspects of his famous father from an intimate family point of view. J. R. Holliday, of The Constitution, spoke of some of the lighter veins in the character of Henry Grady, for whom he served as personal secretary for a number of years, and R. L. Foreman gave a short sketch of the life of Robert Toombs.

CONSTIPATION THE CAUSE OF BAD SKIN

Get Natural Relief With Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Rid yourself of constipation! The longer it lingers, the greater the poisons it sends through your body — poisons which can undermine your health and lead to many serious diseases.

The work of constipation shows in the face—pimples, pasty or sallow cheeks, dark circles. It brings headaches. Causes spots before the eyes. Unpleasant breath. But you can get prompt relief and prevent it! Begin eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN today.

After all else has failed, thousands have regained their health with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran, it is 100% effective. Part-bran products bring only "part" results.

Doctors recommend it—and Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoons daily — chronic cases, with every meal.

Ready-to-serve with milk or cream. Use in cooking. Sprinkle into soups. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining cars. Sold by all grocers.

CAUGHT IN JAM, TARIFF GOES OVER UNTIL NEXT WEEK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Caught in a jam with the Vane controversy, the tariff bill left uncompleted in the special session lost a desperate bid for the unfinished business space on the senate calendar today and was sidetracked until next week.

Preceding the vote which defeated a move to defer the Vane case until Monday, President Hoover urged the legislators in his first annual congressional message to complete action on the tariff measure at an early date, especially since "business and agriculture are both co-operating to minimize future uncertainties."

"It is just that they should know what the rates are to be," the president said, adding that no condition had arisen since his original tariff recommendation to the special session to change the principles of the limited revision he supported at that time. He reiterated his stand for retention of the flexible clause which the senate has eliminated.

WORK OF MISSION HOSPITALS SHOWN BY DR. E. M. POTEAT

Work of mission hospitals and colleges in speeding the gospel in foreign lands will be outlined by Dr. Edwin M. Poteat, president of the Atlanta Evangelical Ministers' Association, at the Second Baptist church, at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Poteat's lecture is one of a series covering different phases of foreign mission work, featuring the daily meetings of the week of prayer for foreign missions being held at the church under sponsorship of the Woman's Missionary Society, of which Mrs. William Walker Brookes is president. Mrs. Samuel Lumpkin will speak Thursday on "Speeding the Gospel Through Prayer and Stewardship" and Mrs. H. B. Spinning will close the series Friday. A special feature of the Friday service will be presentation of a missionary playlet by the Sunbeam department under direction of Mrs. H. B. Jones.

BOSSY WINS AGAIN Bad Boy of Newburyport Is Named Mayor.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Dec. 3. (United News.)—Andrew J. "Bossy" Gillis triumphed over his traders tonight when he was re-elected mayor of Newburyport for a second two-year term, which he promises will be as interesting as his first. The red-haired ex-sailor defeated former Mayor Michael Cashman, his only opponent, by the narrow but unanswerable plurality of 126 votes. Returns from six city wards gave Bossy 3,199 votes; Cashman 3,073.

To The PUBLIC

The proper solution of public problems is generally facilitated by informed public discussion. Therefore I take this means of presenting to the public a very disquieting feature of railroad operation.

In 1920 our company transported 4,385,630 revenue passengers. In 1928 only 1,444,887. So far this year, the situation is materially worse.

Constituted authorities in various states where we operate are granting many certificates of convenience and necessity to competitors by bus and truck. In no case has our protest prevailed.

There is not enough business of this character to support more than one common carrier. If it be divided, the passenger revenue of the railway will become so small as not to justify the train operation which many communities feel to be essential.

This Railway realizes the economic value of automobiles and of buses and trucks as common carriers. It has no quarrel with progress in transportation, but the public should bear in mind that if their representatives continue to authorize competition of this character and the use of passenger train service be much further diminished, the inevitable result must be a material reduction in that service. This may or may not be a proper solution of the difficult problem, and this friendly warning of prevailing tendencies is submitted for your thoughtful consideration.

BILL TO PROVIDE FUNDS TO FIGHT SAND FLY SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—The tiny sand fly, a pest that flourishes along the coast of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida, will be studied by agriculture department experts with a view to eradicating it, if a recommendation made by Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, democrat, Florida, is adopted.

Mrs. Owen appeared today before the house appropriations sub-committee considering the agriculture department appropriations bill, and urged the designation of $16,000 for the work.

"The sand fly," Mrs. Owen said, "is so small that it can crawl through mosquito bars and small mesh screens, and its bite is as annoying as that of the mosquito. It is one of the worst of pests."

ESCAPED GEORGIA CONVICT CAUGHT IN CHATTANOOGA

"Little Bit" Walker, Pike county negro convict, has been apprehended at Chattanooga and requisition papers for his return were issued by Governor L. G. Hardman.

Walker was sentenced to 12 months for carrying a concealed pistol, and to two years for shooting at a person. He began his sentence in November, 1928, and escaped in September, 1929. T. O. Moore, Pike county warden, will bring him back to Georgia.

FOX TO BUILD HUGE THEATERS IN 100 CITIES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Harold B. Franklin, executive head of the Fox west coast theaters, today announced that his company would erect theaters in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle for the exclusive showing of sound pictures of important events. Franklin said that eventually a chain of 100 such theaters would be formed throughout the United States.

Grippy Aches
IN 3 MINUTES

When one of those grippy, aching colds come on, and you want immediate pain relief, go to any drug store or soda fountain and ask for a package of dose of "B-C" (10c and 25c). Three minutes after taking, the pain begins to recede, your nerves are rested, fever reduced and comforting relief sets in.

"B-C" contains five ingredients that function together for the relief of pain (female pains included) regardless of its origin, accomplishing in a few minutes what no one drug formula can do under 1 to 3 hours. In the treatment of raging headaches, sinus pains, neuralgia or ear-aches due to colds, "B-C" is unequalled, being absolutely safe, free from opiates or habit-forming drugs, and may be taken as often as needed.

To avoid imitative substitutes, don't ask for a "headache powder," but specify and insist upon "B-C" and get the original and genuine that never fails to bring quick and comforting relief.

Burns Members To Pay Tribute To Dr. Jacobs

The monthly meeting of the Burns Club at the Burns' cottage, at 6:30 o'clock tonight will be devoted to a memorial of Dr. Joseph Jacobs, recently deceased.

Dr. Jacobs was one of the founders of the club, a past president, and one of the most zealous of the Atlanta devotees of the Scottish bard. He accumulated a large library of literature concerning Burns, some rare editions of the poet's works, and many pictures, bronzes and baso-reliefs of the singer whose lyrics he loved. He was a firmament of letters like a zodiac of light and human love.

This evening there will be prayer by the chaplain, the Rev. Russell K. Smith, followed by tributes to the departed spirit by Chief Justice Russell, Rabbi David Marx, Dr. Sam W. Small, Colonel H. H. Cabanis, Alex. Meyer, John M. Graham, Donald M. Bain and Piromis H. Bell, all of them old-time associates of Dr. Jacobs while in life.

President W. F. Melton will be in charge of the memorial meeting and many noted guests have been invited to participate.

FOX SUPER FILMS WILL BE SHOWN AT NEW THEATER

The opening of the new $3,000,000 Fox theater at Peachtree and Ponce de Leon on Christmas Day will enable Georgians to enjoy the first of the many super-films that will be produced during the 1929-30 Fox jubilee celebration, commemorating 25 years of motion picture production and progress.

Forty-eight selected pictures in sound and many of them in color will be released during this jubilee period, and Atlanta and all Georgia is in for a finer appreciation of all that William Fox has done to further the drama and comedies on the silver sheet that "speaks for itself."

Three revues, three operettas, four musical comedies, seven pictures with music, seven feature comedies and 24 dramas will constitute this supreme effort of the Fox organization.

A few of these features that have already been released and which have found immediate acclaim among the leading critics are: "The Cock-Eyed World," starring Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe, of "What Price Glory" fame, both by the same author, Lawrence Stallings; "Salute," Will Rogers, in "They Had to See Paris," "Rio Rita," Lenore Ulric in "Frozen Justice," and Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Sunny Side Up."

As a forecast of what will follow during this greater movie season, Atlanta can start getting primed now for its greatest year in photo plays and stage revues. The opening picture at the Fox has not yet been announced, but R. T. Newton, managing director of the theater, says that definite news concerning it will be forthcoming within a few days.

HARRIS INTRODUCES MEASURES IN SENATE

Chattahoochee Improvement and Cotton Loans Asked by Georgian.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—At the opening of the second session of the seventy-first congress, Senator Harris introduced the following bills and amendments: Making available loans to farmers for the crop of 1930 amounting to $5,000,000 received in repayment of loans made pursuant to joint resolution for the relief of farmers in the flood-stricken area. Approved February 25, 1929, as amended. Congressman Crisp has introduced a similar bill in the house. Amendment to the rivers and harbors bill, directing and authorizing the secretary of war to extend the examination and survey heretofore authorized to the Chattahoochee river with a view to improving the river, including the erection of locks and dams, to the extent necessary to make in navigable between Columbus and Atlanta. The cost of the examination and survey is to be paid from appropriations heretofore or hereafter made for examinations and surveys. To provide for the advancement of the retired list of certain officers of the navy.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

CHEST WILL CONTINUE FIGHT ON MENDICANTS

Leaders Disappointed at Council's Refusal To Pass Ordinance.

Efforts of the Atlanta Community Chest to remove beggars from the streets, thwarted Monday by action of city council in refusing to pass an ordinance to that effect, will be continued, it was announced Tuesday by H. M. Atkinson, president of the Chest, and R. L. LaCraw, general chairman of the Chest's campaign for public support. "We have made a pledge to the people of Atlanta to remove beggars from the city's streets by providing shelter and means of independence in worthy cases," said Mr. LaCraw. "The city council has seen fit to refuse its assistance in this move, in spite of our appeals, but we shall not rest on that action." Mr. Atkinson said he deplored the action of council which was unexpected after the tax committee of that body had given approval to an ordinance designed to bar beggars from public solicitation of alms. "The action was taken despite our efforts and our appeals, and despite the general wishes of the community, which has long been asking removal of mendicants," said Mr. Atkinson. "We have sought for years to protect Atlanta from imposters who have evaded every attempt to guide them into self-supporting and honest toil and who continue to prey upon the public. We have offered care, medical attention, and the chance of self-support for every worthy case, but whether for political motives or otherwise this offer has been rejected by the city council. The offer still holds good."

LOCAL MOTOR CLUB MEMBERS COUNCIL WILL MEET TODAY

The members' council of the Atlanta Motor Club will hold its regular semi-monthly luncheon at 12:30 o'clock Friday in the Ansley hotel "cave," it was announced Tuesday. President Goodloe Yancy will preside. Russell R. Whitman, publisher of The Georgian, will make the principal address. A musical program has been arranged.

FLORIDA BANKER RENAMED DIRECTOR OF RESERVE BANK

Oscar Newton, chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta, announced Tuesday that G. G. Ware, president of the First National bank of Leesburg, Fla., has been re-elected by member banks in Group 3 as a Class A director of the Federal Reserve bank of Atlanta. Leon C. Simon, manufacturer and wholesaler of New Orleans, La., has been re-elected by member banks in Group 1 as a Class B director. Mr. Newton said. Each was chosen for a term of 3 years, beginning January 1, 1930.

POLE DELEGATION IS PLEASED WITH VISIT TO U. S.

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Members of the Polish army delegation to the Pulaski celebration in Savannah, Ga., arrived in Warsaw and granted a press interview today on their American experiences. "We visited almost all the larger Polish centers and attended the convention of the American Legion, which is analogous to our federation. Besides some Frenchmen, we were the only foreigners attending it. After our arrival the legion celebration became a great Polish-American manifestation. "We were received with the utmost cordiality everywhere."

St. Philip's Cathedral Drama Group Presents One-Act Plays Tonight

The Drama Workshop of St. Philip's cathedral will present a bill of original one-act plays at 8 o'clock tonight at Eggleston Memorial hall, under the auspices of St. Mary's Guild of St. Philip's. The first play on the bill is "Rumage Sale," by Elizabeth Maule de Ories, daughter of the dean of the cathedral. The cast is composed of Mary Edwards King, Emily Warren, Dorothy Cassels, Jeanette Topham, and Martha Crowe. "Steve," the second play, was written by Matt Ramage. Mary Ben Wright and Mack Skinner share the lead, with the latter playing the title role. They are ably supported by Elizabeth Macaulay, W. C. Pauley, Emily Warren, Dorothy Cassels and Sam Roberts. The third play is "First at Bethel," by Margaret Bland, whose "Pink and Patches" won a prize in the 1929 David Belasco tournament in New York city. Catharine Hurtel Crawley and Harvey A. Camp have the leading roles, and other characters include Mary Edwards King, Dorothy Cassels, Sam Roberts and W. C. Pauley. This is the second time that Miss Nan Bagby Stephens has presented the Drama Workshop in plays for St. Mary's Guild. The pieces are written in the playwrighting class and dramatized by the acting group. Miss Georgia Mae Little is in charge of all properties.

HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE; FAMILY BARELY ESCAPES

Mrs. Dan O. Neal, of 2388 Ponce de Leon avenue, and her twin sons, Dan, Jr., and Todd, both Tech High school students, narrowly escaped death early Tuesday morning when flames destroyed the residence. Awakened by smoke in the room where he slept, Mr. Neal discovered the entire lower floor of the home ablaze. After rousing his wife and children, Mr. Neal leapt from the roof to the frozen ground and found an old ladder, which he leaned against the building. He had barely brought his wife and sons to safety when the roof caved in, sending a mass of burning embers crashing to the ground. The estimated loss was $25,000. Mr. Neal said he thought the fire started from the basement furnace.

EXPORT OF COTTON SHOWS DECREASE DURING PAST MONTH

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 3.—(AP)—United States cotton exports to foreign countries exclusive of Canada during November totaled 1,079,391 bales as against 1,307,249 bales in 1928 as reported today by Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. Exports were: To Great Britain, 245,892 bales, against 331,016 year ago; to France, 150,108, against 137,846; to Germany, 269,300, against 373,023, and to remainder of Europe 199,076, against 198,208. Exports to Japan, China and Mexico amounted to 214,976 bales against 267,156.

'GREATER MACON' BILL RATIFIED BY BOARD

Central Georgia City Increases Population 6,000 by Borough Plan.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 3.—(AP)—The city of Macon today became the borough of Macon and its population jumped from 68,000 to 74,000 when the board of county commissioners ratified the "Greater Macon bill," bringing into the city three well-populated suburban sections and the village of Payne City. City council recently passed the borough bill and city officials said the ratification from the board of county commissioners was the only remaining step needed to bring "Greater Macon" into being. Following the commissioners' action, ex-officio councilmen from the three suburban communities were elected. They are: H. E. Nottingham, for Ingleside; P. T. Anderson, SHIRLEY HILLS, AND J. F. HEARD, JR. LYNMORE. H. T. BROWN IS ACTING MAYOR OF PAYNE CITY, HIS TERM OF OFFICE EXPIRING ON THE LAST DAY OF THE YEAR.

The new members of the council will not have the power of ballot at council meetings, it was explained, the principal aim of the bill being to increase the city's population. Advocates of the measure said a large number of businessmen and clerks in Macon work in the city and maintain their residence beyond the old city limits in various suburban sections. The measure was particularly directed towards counting these residents as citizens of Macon for the 1930 census.

STATE COMMITTEE TO DISCUSS CAUSE AND CURE OF WAR

FAKE SOLICITOR FOR TWO FIRMS SOUGHT BY POLICE

A tall young white man, wearing glasses, said to have victimized several Atlantans within recent weeks, posing as agent for two large mail-order houses, is the object of a search by police, it was stated Tuesday night. Displaying catalogs of the two houses, police say the stranger has obtained money from various persons within the past three weeks which he accepted as the initial payment for merchandise to be paid for on the installment plan. Inquiry at the Atlanta offices of the two mail order houses by police revealed that no such solicitor as described by them was employed by the concerns.

JOSEPH SHAW NAMED KIWANIS PRESIDENT

Annual Reports Tell of Activities of Club in Many Fields.

Joseph S. Shaw was named president at the annual election of officers of the Atlanta Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the Ansley hotel.

Others named were R. M. Callaway first vice president; Dr. Gordon Singleton, second vice president; Fred J. Colledge, treasurer; Will H. Hammond, trustee; and J. Harry Alexander, King Bailey, James A. Cassidy, Julian M. Harrison and Roy C. Morrison, directors.

President Shaw has served as a director and as first vice president. While chairman of the club's Home of the Friendless committee, he sponsored a campaign for a new building to house the underprivileged children cared for by the institution. The building, now under construction will

RUM POSSESSION LAID TO JOE HALL IN INDICTMENT

Indictments charging Joe Hall with violating the prohibition law by manufacturing whisky, possessing 20 gallons of beer, and possessing illicit distilling apparatus, were returned Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury.

Frank Wilkey was indicted jointly with Hall on the charge of possessing distilling apparatus, the indictment alleging that the apparatus was found on Wilkey's premises and that he had knowledge of its presence. The case was investigated by County Officers West and Roberts.

Cost when completed more than $30,000.

A graduate of Kentucky University, Mr. Shaw is a member of Druid Hills Country Club, Atlanta Athletic Club, and is a Mason and a Shriner.

Yearly reports of more than a dozen committees were read at the close of luncheon revealing the club's activities in various affairs. After introducing all visitors, Past President Walter Cooper yielded the gavel to his successor, predicting a prosperous year under the new officers.

GRAFT, WHISKY CASES FAIL TO REACH JURORS

Indictments Bar Consideration of City Hall and School Charges.

Due to the pressure of other matters, the Fulton county grand jury Tuesday did not resume its investigation of charges of "palm greasing" and graft in the city hall. The grand jury also failed to take up the charge that rum runners have used public school grounds for transferring of whisky cargoes.

Both matters may be taken under consideration by the grand jury at its meeting Friday, it was said. An unusually large number of indictments in routine cases occupied the attention of the body Tuesday and prevented the grand jurors from bringing up the graft and whisky matters. The "palm greasing" charges were brought up when the grand jury questioned Alderman Ben Hulei at a meeting last week following Hulei's statement on the floor of council that he had been told that $3,500 was to have been spent in council in connection with securing certain action.

TWO ARE INDICTED IN MURDER CASES BY GRAND JURORS

Indictments in two murder cases were returned Tuesday by the Fulton grand jury. Will Morgan was indicted on a charge of slaying Will Mackey with a pistol on November 24. J. D. Thayer, alias Turpin, was indicted on a charge of killing Joe Jackson with a knife on the same date.

The whisky-running matter was brought to public attention when R. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of city schools, confirmed statements of discharged employees of the school department that "Reb" High school grounds had been used as transfer points for whisky cars. Ritchie said that the school department had succeeded in having the practice stopped, but he refused to give the special school board committee further information on the matter.

BRITISH PROHIBITION DRIVE TO START SOON

London, Dec. 3.—(United News.)—British temperance workers believe the time has come for parliament to overhaul the English liquor laws, the Rev. Henry Carter, member of the royal licensing commission, told the United News today.

Carter is honorary secretary of the Temperance Council of Christian Churches. He is one of the three temperance members of the licensing commission which is studying the liquor problem with a view to proposing amendments to the liquor laws in England and Wales.

"The average Englishman is a temperate man," Carter said. "Drunkenness is considered a most creditable vice in England."

"During the past 15 years, alcohol consumption in this country has dropped 40 per cent and police court convictions for drunkenness have decreased more than half. During the same period the types of disease and crime attributable to drinking showed a similar diminution."

"In view of this progress, some people say we can trust to the wholesome tendency of events and not seek further legislation. But the reverse view is rightly taken by British temperance reformers."

"We feel the time is overdue for parliament to overhaul the liquor licensing laws and open the way for a democratic solution of the liquor problem along local option lines."

The commission is expected to take two years to investigate the liquor laws and the way they are enforced. During that time it may visit the United States to study prohibition. One of the foremost reasons for the progress of temperance in England, Carter said, is the changed attitude of British youths toward liquor.

"The new generation," he said, "is far less likely to form the alcohol habit than its predecessors. Hygiene and temperance are being taught in state schools throughout the country under the sanction of the board of education. This instruction is not yet compulsory, but every year it is becoming more general."

"The churches also are devoting more time to educating boys and girls in temperance."

Carter, who is known as the most forceful advocate of temperance in Britain, is a smiling, energetic, bespectacled Methodist minister.

"The Methodist church in England, as in the United States, is in the forefront of the fight against alcohol," he said.

Carter visited America in 1910 and again in 1927 and 1928. "I know something of America," he said, "as she was before prohibition and as she is now. I was in St. Louis before the saloons closed and I visited several typical ones before it was too late."

On his 1927 trip he visited Hollywood to discuss means of raising the moral tone of the movies. When he returned to England he said Hollywood was "not so bad as painted."

At the present time, Carter is negotiating with movie officials in New York and Hollywood with the purpose of raising the moral standard of films sent to Great Britain.

PENNEY COMPANY, SEARS-ROEBUCK MAY FORM MERGER

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(P)—E. C. Sams, president of the J. C. Penney Co., who operates a chain of retail stores practically nationwide, said today that the Penney executives are studying the economic advantages which might grow out of a merger with a large mail order organization.

He intimated that the study was being made on the basis of the possibilities of a combination with either Sears, Roebuck & Co. or Montgomery Ward & Co.

Mr. Sams' statement was in response to rumors which have been current in New York and Chicago that a merger of his organization with Sears-Roebuck was being negotiated. This Mr. Sams flatly denied, stating "The executives of The J. C. Penney Company have not discussed the basis of a merger with any Chicago mail order house."

He added, however, "some time ago a committee was chosen from our executives to study the economic advantages that might grow out of merging our organization with one or the other of the large mail order houses."

He explained that there are many unworked problems in the field of distribution, pointing out that mass production has outstripped the present distributing facilities.

It had been expected that the defendants, who were accused of a liquor conspiracy, would plead not guilty and that their trial would last for weeks.

Jail terms and fines ranging as high as $24,000 were fixed by Judge Lindley. The sentences ranged from one day in custody of the United States marshal to six months in the county jail at Rockford. Thomas D'Amico, grocer, charged with supplying sugar to a number of still operators, was fined $2,000 and put on probation for a year.

Belgian Washington Is Held as Ineligible For Entrance to U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Leon Jules William Washington, said to be a relative of George Washington, but a Belgian by birth, was held today by Immigration Commissioner General Hull to be ineligible for admission to this country except under the non-preference Belgian quota restrictions.

In a letter to Representative Cole, of Iowa, Mr. Hull said he saw no way in which preference could be given to Washington under the law.

The Belgian arrived in New York in August with an immigration visa permitting him to remain temporarily. Washington intended, the immigration commissioner said, to remain five months, but on November 30 submitted an application for an extension.

Baltimore Engineering Firm Is Approved by Committee For Atlanta Sewer Survey

Donaldson's Recommendation of Whitman, Requa and Smith Ratified by Sub-Body.

By a vote of three to one members of the sub-committee of the sewer committee of city council Tuesday ratified a recommendation of Chief of Construction Clarke Donaldson that the firm of Whitman, Requa and Smith, famous Baltimore sanitary engineers, be awarded the contract for making a comprehensive survey of Atlanta and its environs with a view of providing adequate disposal units for the future.

Councilman Frank Reynolds, of the eighth ward, was the only member of the committee to oppose the selection, holding that the work should be awarded to Weidman & Singleton, an Atlanta firm, and that if it is necessary to add a consultant of national standing the city should take advantage of a stipulation of the contract which would provide $7,500 for that purpose.

Decision of the sub-committee came following a lengthy deliberation during which bids from several nationally known concerns were considered and which finally divided down to consideration of the Whitman and Weidman firms.

Dr. P. L. Moon, chairman of the sewer committee of city council and alderman from the second ward; Henderson Hallman, chairman of the sewer contract committee of the Atlanta bond commission, and Mr. Donaldson, the construction chief, were those who cast their ballots in favor of the Baltimore company.

Mr. Reynolds announced that he would file a minority report, but several members of the sewer committee at the last session of that body declared they would be governed entirely by vote for whatever recommendation the sub-committee might file after a careful study of the various bids.

This, it was said, assures sanction of the sub-committee's report at the next regular meeting of the sewer committee, December 10.

Price of the survey, which contemplates a careful and comprehensive study of all territory in the Greater Atlanta area, as recommended by the sub-committee is $20,850.

The Weidman Company asked $15,000 for the work themselves and another $7,500 for the consultant, making a total of $22,500.

PARENTS AWAY, SMALL CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

MANILA, Ark., Dec. 3.—(AP)—After tucking their three children safely in bed to protect them from the freezing weather, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Costner visited Mrs. Costner's father-in-law last night and when they returned their home near here was in flames and their children burned to death.

The bodies of Arthur, 8; Clarence, 6; and Carl, 4, were found after the fire was extinguished. Clarence and Carl evidently were suffocated and position of Arthur's body indicated he sought to escape. His body was found near a door.

The parents left the children in bed beside a cozy fire. Authorities believed the house caught fire from a defective flue.

CUT IN ARMY URGED IN HOOVER MESSAGE

BY JAMES L. WEST.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Behind a 22-word sentence in President Hoover's annual message on the state of the Union lie the elements of drama for congress.

Inexplicably placed at the end of a long section devoted to national defense appear these words: "I recommend that congress give earnest consideration to the possibilities of prudent action which will give relief from our continuously mounting expenditures."

This prudent action contemplates a survey of the field of army posts and navy yards with a view to the elimination of those which no longer are needed for the purely defensive purposes to which the United States has committed the use of its armed forces under the treaty renouncing war as an instrument of national policy.

Cut in Land Forces.

It also takes into account an actual reduction in the land forces and reserves, which would renew the age-old controversy between the national guard and the regular army, with the pressure from the states bearing upon congress for the former.

Abolition of a number of military posts and some navy yards on the Atlantic seaboard also would bring down upon congress representatives of the states in which such posts and yards are located as well as of those having other establishments, the life of which might be brought into question in the political controversy bound to ensue.

Acting on directions of the president, the army general staff has submitted a report on the military stations which it holds can be dispensed with and the information therein will be put into force the general recommendation of the chief executive.

Ever since the nation's battle fleet was transferred to the Pacific coast after the World War there has been repeated agitation for the abolition of some of the Atlantic coast navy yards, but it always has had its end in agitation.

There are six naval plants on the coast exclusive of the Washington navy yard, one in New Hampshire, one in Massachusetts, one in New York, one in Pennsylvania, one in Virginia and one in South Carolina. There is another at New Orleans, on the Gulf coast.

In Atlantic waters are the scouting fleet of several battleships, some cruisers and destroyers and other auxiliary craft. Now and then the contention has been raised that such a fleet did not require the services of so many repair bases, but this has been met with the argument that all of the plants would be necessary in the event of a naval war in the Atlantic.

Missouri Pacific Votes Dividends On Preferred Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Directors of the Missouri Pacific railroad today declared a dividend of $1.50 on account of arrears on the preferred stock and the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25. When the dividends declared today are paid there will remain $48.25 still due on the stock. A similar dividend on the unpaid balance was paid a year ago.

Citizens & Southern Heads

WILLIAM MURPHY.

H. LANE YOUNG.

Atlanta as Bustling Center Surprises British Journalist

BY ALFRED P. PERRY.

Atlanta is a surprise. Romantic novelists of the "old south" and "dramatic" of the north had led me to expect a city redolent of sleepy, old-world charm and fecklessness, where a black mammy would be crowning to their picaninies on the streets and courtly colonels with snow white "imperials" would bow low and address me as "you all" as they directed me upon my way.

Instead, I find a town akin to any other progressive American community, complete with cafeterias, movie palaces and cliff-like business buildings. The litter of untiring reconstruction, so typical of the rising cities of the west, is here. Steel girders loom against the sky like prehistoric skeletons and the clatter of riveters mingles with the clang of panting freight trains. Moreover, a hasty reference to my guide book shows me that the city boasts no less than 28 luncheon clubs, without which no go-ahead town can be considered properly equipped in the United States.

Even Jay-Walking Dead.

Even that cherished relic of the good old days, jay-walking, seems to be a thing of the past, officially at least. As an unrepentant mediocrity I cannot but regret it. This noble and exhilarating art is fast being forgotten among the motor-driven cops pounce savagely upon the rash pedestrian who dares to make a dash against the lights, and even in cities like Chicago, where the law leaves fools to their own fate, the streets are too broad and the steel torrent too swift to give a sporting chance to any but an acrobat. It is a sad suppression of the adventurous instincts of the race, and I suspect that it must bear a share of the responsibility for the widespread crimes of violence among the young which give such grave concern to social students and government officials. If the high spirited young man who strives to live the secure monotony of modern life by "sticking up his neighbors" were encouraged to pit his skill and daring against the driver's brakes, he might well lay aside his gun and blackjack for a pair of sprinting shoes.

But Atlanta has at least two distinctions from most modern American towns which are pleasing to a European. Her streets are charmingly irregular and it is possible to get lost in them without being a hopeless half-wit. The rigid grid-like layout of most new world towns may suit the business of the realtors and may be more efficient for the traffic, though experts differ sharply on that question. But there can be no doubt it is in part responsible for that monotonous appearance which so many American cities deplore when they consider the cities of their native land.

Again, Atlanta has refused to follow the crowd in numbering her streets like so many convicts serving out their time. How much pleasanter it is to search for Peachtree, Spring and Cherry than for Thirty, Ten or West Fifteenth! Strange to say, the worst offender in this matter is like the points of some nightmare compass, with N. W. 17, S. E. 10 and so forth, all cut at proper intervals by A, B, C and the rest of the alphabet.

Polkham, vice president and assistant trust officer; E. T. Johnson, cashier; W. H. Fitzpatrick, assistant cashier and manager savings department; L.

If the high spirited young man who strives to live the secure monotony of modern life by "sticking up his neighbors" were encouraged to pit his skill and daring against the driver's brakes, he might well lay aside his gun and blackjack for a pair of sprinting shoes.

But Atlanta has at least two distinctions from most modern American towns which are pleasing to a European. Her streets are charmingly irregular and it is possible to get lost in them without being a hopeless half-wit. The rigid grid-like layout of most new world towns may suit the business of the realtors and may be more efficient for the traffic, though experts differ sharply on that question. But there can be no doubt it is in part responsible for that monotonous appearance which so many American cities deplore when they consider the cities of their native land.

Again, Atlanta has refused to follow the crowd in numbering her streets like so many convicts serving out their time. How much pleasanter it is to search for Peachtree, Spring and Cherry than for Thirty, Ten or West Fifteenth! Strange to say, the worst offender in this matter is like the points of some nightmare compass, with N. W. 17, S. E. 10 and so forth, all cut at proper intervals by A, B, C and the rest of the alphabet.

C. AND S. CONTROLS ATLANTA TRUST CO.

Interests of these patrons will be as well, or even better, served in future than they have by us in the past. "All of the officers and employees of the Atlanta Trust will be retained by the Citizens & Southern until January 1 and a considerable number of them will be given permanent positions after that date."

Need for permanent and more extensive quarters here has been brought about by the growth of the commercial banking and trust departments of the Citizens & Southern, it was explained here Tuesday by bank officials. They expressed the opinion that they considered it most fortunate that such an outstanding building was available, especially since it is located in what they believe to be a most desirable central point and for this reason more convenient for the service of the largest number of business people.

Steady Growth of Bank.

The plans for the enlargement of their present quarters and acquisition of additional assets mark another forward step in the steady growth of the Citizens & Southern and is regarded by many as a natural result of their efforts in behalf of the Empire-State of the South.

According to the tentative plans already formulated, the ground floor of the new building will be occupied by prominent business concerns, the second floor by the spacious banking room and the third floor by the bookkeeping and other departments of the bank. Sufficient space will be retained on the ground floor to house the safety deposit vaults and impressive entrances will provide convenient passageways from Broad, Walton and Marietta streets.

Personnel of Bank.

While the details of the transfer are being worked out, it was announced that all of the clerical and official personnel of the trust company would be retained until January 1, with many of them remaining in permanent positions after that date.

The statement of the Atlanta Trust Company for October 4, 1929, listed assets in excess of $5,000,000 which now have been taken over by the Citizens & Southern National bank, increasing the assets of that institution as shown by a statement of the same date, to more than $85,000,000. This figure, however, does not include other affiliated banks and holding companies which would make the total assets well in excess of $100,000,000.

Atlanta Trust Officers.

Following is a list of the officers of the Atlanta Trust Company: A. J. Orme, president; Charles H. Black, executive vice president; R. P. Basset, Dana O. Belser and Smith Witham, vice presidents; J. B. Wheat, secretary and trust officer; R. F. Winter, treasurer; R. F. Adamson, assistant secretary; H. G. Black, assistant to president; Spalding, MacDougall and Sibley, general counsel, and Jones, Evans, Powers and Jones, attorneys.

Officers of the Citizens & Southern are as follows: Mills B. Lane, chairman of the board; William Murphy, president; H. Lane Young, vice president and executive manager; Frank Hawkins, vice president and chairman trust committee; Thomas C. Erwin, vice president and trust officer; W. B. Spann, vice president; Alva G. Maxwell, vice president; W. C. Roberts, vice president; L. L. Gellerstedt, vice president; H. P. Polkham, vice president and assistant trust officer; E. T. Johnson, cashier; W. H. Fitzpatrick, assistant cashier and manager savings department; L.

Ship on Rocks.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Feeling his way into Vancouver harbor in dense fog, the steamship Point San Pedro, of the Gulf Pacific line, piled up on the rocks one-quarter mile west of Prospect Point at the entrance to the first narrows today.

The captain reported his ship was fast but gave no other details. The Pacific Salvage Company sent the tug Hecla to the aid of the vessel, together with the tug Faulstich.

Future Home of C. & S.

The big structure above is the Atlanta Trust Company building, which Tuesday passed into the hands of the Citizens & Southern National bank as part of the transaction between the two institutions. The new owners also acquired, along with the building, a 99-year lease on a strip of ground adjoining the edifice. An addition will be built on this property, the Marietta street frontage of which is shown at the lower right-hand corner of the picture, and the Citizens & Southern will construct a large and modern banking room in the increased space provided.

H. Parris, assistant cashier and assistant trust officer; W. B. Symmers, James Sartor and J. Thigpen, assistant cashiers.

AGED ARKANSAS WOMAN FREED IN POISON CASE

TEXARKANA, Ark., Dec. 3.—(AP)—A charge of assault with intent to kill against Mrs. Nancy Lynn, 63, in connection with the poisoning of a community well at Fort Lynn, Ark., in which more than a score of persons were stricken, was dismissed in Miller county court today. She left the courtroom on the arm of her brother, Robert Morris, 61, who was also under indictment in connection with the crime.

18 NEW MEASURES BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Tennessee Administration's Amendment Tax Is Read in House.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 3.—(AP)—Less than an hour after the house of representatives opened this morning, adjournment was taken but the interval saw 18 new measures passed on first reading, 55 others passed on second reading and referred to proper committees, and resolutions mourning the passing of four former members adopted.

The administration's amusement tax measure levying a 10 per cent tax on admissions to all amusements conducted for "a profit" and the bill to provide for the commissioner of finance and taxation to administer the estate tax for the exclusive benefit of the state were passed on first reading.

The resolution offered by Representative J. L. Levine, of Chattanooga, calling upon the house to take action necessary to repeal $1,741,000 of the 1929 appropriations as "unnecessary and non-essential" was introduced today. It will be allowed to lie over until tomorrow when it will be acted upon.

The administration proposal to levy an excise tax of 3 per cent of net earnings upon individuals, firms, corporations, joint stock companies and others engaging in business was also passed on first reading today.

Resolutions deploring the death of United States Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, a former speaker of the state house of representatives, were adopted by the house. Similar resolutions were adopted concerning the deaths of L. C. Honk and Robert A. Russell, both of Knox, and W. H. Ward, of Dyer county, all former members of the body.

Among the local measures passed on first reading was one empowering the city of Elizabethton to issue $250,000 of its funding bonds to liquidate an indebtedness against the city. Others provide for the city of Dyersburg to issue $12,000 of bonds for park purposes, Kingston to issue $15,000 for hotel purposes and a bill to enlarge the boundaries of the Sharon special school district.

Committee meetings on general bills referred after first reading today, will start this afternoon.

Chamber of Commerce For Florida Indorses Hoover Business Plan

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 3.—(AP)—The Florida Chamber of Commerce, at its annual convention here today pledged indorsement of President Hoover's prosperity program, voted reaffirmation of confidence in the future development of the state, urged repeal of the federal inheritance tax act and adjourned harmoniously after a two-hour wrangle on the floor over selection of a state president.

George Ware, Leesburg banker and Florida member of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank at Atlanta, finally was selected as the new president. Naming of the 1930 convention city will be made at a later date.

STATE STRENGTHENS McMANUS TRIAL CASE

Several Witnesses Incriminate "Smiling George" in Death of Rothstein.

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—(United News.)—The heretofore seemingly puny circumstantial case by which the state is attempting to convict George McManus of the Arnold Rothstein murder, became considerably more robust today, although still short several important features.

Witnesses—police, detectives, a telephone girl, a hotel clerk, a tailor, a bellboy, and a considerably scared restaurant cashier—were called in rapid order, each adding his bit to the story. At the close of the day these main points had been brought before the jury:

An admission by the defense that the man who registered at the Park Central hotel as George A. Richards, of Newark, and who occupied room 349 where Rothstein allegedly was shot, was the defendant, McManus.

Evidence that a telephone call was made from the room to a number supposedly "Lindy's restaurant" and that the cashier at "Lindy's" received a message for Rothstein from a man who said he was McManus. The message was for Rothstein to call room 349 at the Park Central.

Fled After Death.
Testimony that an hour after the shooting McManus' brothers, Tom and Frank, refused to tell detectives where George might be found, although they offered to proceed, if necessary, and that he was in flight for three weeks.

The assertion by detectives that McManus surrendered after James D. C. Murray, his attorney, had had a "conversation" with District Attorney J. B. Banton.

Evidence that Mrs. McManus left her apartment the day after the shooting and was gone for three weeks, during which time the apartment was closed.

Testimony as to how Abe Bender, taxi driver, saw a pistol fall to the street under the window of room 349 of the Park Central about the time of the shooting. This was amplified by presentation in court of the window screen from room 349, showing a rip in the screen through which the state contends some one threw the pistol.

There were many odds and ends of evidence, such as additional identification of the big, blue overcoat found in room 349 after the shooting as belonging to McManus; a repetition of yesterday's recital of the determined manner in which the dying Rothstein refused to reveal who shot him or where the shooting was done; and description of how McManus' arrest finally came about.

Detective Story.
The day's evidence, devoid as usual of any high dramatic peaks, was relieved a little by Detective John

MRS. C. WOLFE, who declares McManus restored her to health after she had been bed-ridden for months.

"I know that no woman could have been in worse condition than I was during the last two years and still live. Not only was I continually wracked with pain, but I was also deathly sick most of the time. Anything I put in my stomach caused terrible nausea, and I could not retain even the lightest food. I became so weak I could scarcely raise my hand off the bed.

"After taking one bottle of Sargol I started to eat nourishing food and digest it. My general condition began to improve and my strength returned so fast I was soon able to be up and able to look after my household. I am even able to go down town by myself on the street car and do my shopping.

"I cannot say too much for Sargol Soft Mass Pills either, for they are the best liver stimulant I have ever tried. They helped me regain my lost health by eliminating the poisons from my system. I will praise these wonderful medicines as long as I live."

Daily story of how the hotel was searched after the shooting. Detectives visited each room and questioned guests. One of them, the defense maintained, was a Pennsylvania congressman but his name, which sounds like "Warren" but isn't that, is a bit doubtful. In another room they found a girl who could give them George McManus' telephone number. In another they found Ruth Keyes, Chicago model, whom the detective pronounced a "blonde and quite pretty."

In the room adjoining room 349 the detectives interrupted honeymooners. They had to force entrance to the room, it was brought out, because the newlyweds thought some prank-playing friends were knocking on the door and refused to answer.

The honeymooners hadn't heard anything in the way of a disturbance at all in the next room. None of the other guests, with the exception of Mrs. Marian Putnam, of Asheville, N. C., had either, for that matter.

NOVEMBER AUTO TAG SALES PASS RECORD OF 1928

Sale of automobile licenses tags during November netted the state a total of $20,936.62, records of George H. Carswell, secretary of state, reveal.

The amount represented an increase over November of last year, when the total was $18,500.

After January 1, when the 1930 tags go on sale, daily revenues sometimes will amount to as much as $200,000.

Two Commissioners Of Kentucky Highway Board Quit Jobs

FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 3.—(AP) The long-smouldering row in the Kentucky state highway commission came to a head today by announcement from Governor Sappington that three members had resigned, his request and that the other commissioner, Ben Johnson, chairman, had refused to do so.

Chairman Johnson not only refused to resign but requested Attorney General Cammack to protect his rights "as an officer of the commonwealth and to prevent any interference with the performance of my official duties." His request which the attorney-general took under consideration, was taken to presage a court fight over the right of the governor to remove a commissioner who refused to resign, and possibly to bring before the public various charges and counter charges which were taken up by the Franklin county grand jury here last summer.

Usual Quarterly Dividend Declared By Lane Stores

Those attending the meeting were Harold H. Lane, president, and J. H. Mulliken, of the firm of Mulliken-Roberts, New York; George Shriver, of the firm of Hamilton & Company, Baltimore; William H. Adams, Jr., of Atlanta; A. R. Munn, Roy N. Chelf, Tate H. Earnest, Thomas C. Cox, and R. D. Lane.

HOLIDAY PLAN VETOED

Mayor Turns Down Council Resolution.

"Too many holidays" was the curt announcement of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Tuesday as he vetoed a resolution passed unanimously Monday by city council declaring a holiday Saturday in order that city hall employees might journey to the annual football classic between Georgia and Tech.

The paper also was designed as a tribute to the outstanding visiting delegations—one from the republic of Cuba and another from New Orleans—so that official Atlanta might be free to extend the city's hospitality. Mr. Ragsdale approved all other papers which came to him with the exception of one providing that low bidders on sectional divisions of furnishings and equipment for Atlanta's new $1,000,000 city hall might begin manufacture of the articles at once subject to delivery on order of the city, and another providing for payment of about $34,000 to the National Construction Company as damages for delays in erection of the city hall building.

SEEK MISSING WOMAN

Mrs. Lyman F. Blake Vanishes in Macon.

Atlanta police Tuesday were requested by Macon authorities to aid in the search for Mrs. Lyman F. Blake, 52, of Massachusetts, who disappeared in the Macon Terminal station Monday night. It is said that Mrs. Blake vanished when her husband went to a magazine stand in the station during a wait between trains, as they were en route to Florida.

No theory as to why Mrs. Blake disappeared was offered by Mr. Blake, who said his wife had possibly $100 on her person. She was described by Mr. Blake as weighing about 220 pounds, with brown hair and blue eyes, about five feet eight inches tall, and wore a black coat with a fur collar.

Ford Announces Pay Increase For 113,643 Workers in U.S.; Makes Minimum Wage $7.00

Increase Adds 20 Millions to Annual Pay Roll of Company—Cuts Working Day to 8 Hours.

DETROIT, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Wage increases that will add approximately $20,000,000 a year to the pay roll of the Ford Motor Company were announced today by Edsel Ford, president of the company. The minimum wage of $6 a day is increased to $7 a day and increases graduating on the basis of five cents an hour were given employees already receiving between $7 and $10 a day.

The increase, which is effective as of December 1, is confined to employees within the United States. Of these, 113,643 come in the classification of increases of five cents an hour to all employees who have been receiving $7 or more per day.

The increase is in line with the announcement recently made by Henry Ford at Washington during President Hoover's business conference.

The wage increase from a minimum of $6 a day to $7 is a third major step of this kind taken by the company since January, 1914. At that time the company started the industrial world by setting the scale from an average of $2.34 a day to a minimum of $5. This increase generally was considered a radical industrial move and many economists contended it could not be successfully accomplished.

Simultaneously the company reduced the working day from nine hours to eight hours. The increase alone resulted in an increase of $11,000,000 a year for the workers concerned, while additions to the number of employees by reason of the shorter working day caused an added wage payment throughout the Ford plants of $5,000,000 a year.

The second major increase was announced on January 1, 1919, when the minimum scale was increased from $5 to $6 a day.

The formal announcement by Edsel Ford said:

"Ford employees of every grade began working under an increased wage scale Monday. The Ford minimum wage was increased from $6 a day to $7. All employees whose wage rate exceeded the minimum wage received an increase in their hourly rate. The probationary or hiring-in wage which is paid to apprentice employees for the first two months was raised from $5 a day to $6. In addition to these wage increases the salary roll was raised 5 per cent. It is the third time the Ford Motor Company has raised its minimum wage rate.

"On the basis of the October pay roll, which registered 144,990 employees, the monthly increase will amount to $1,028,451, or slightly in excess of $19,500,000 a year. All Ford branches and plants in the United States are included.

"Employees of the number of 113,643 have received increases which bring their daily wage between $7.20 and $10 a day. Of this number 27,410 go to $7.20; 33,396 men go to $7.60 a day; 22,071 men go to $8 a day; and 12,327 men go to $8.40 a day.

Between that rate and $10 a day, 17,339 men are affected."

In announcing the increase, Mr. Edsel Ford said:

"We are able to make this wage increase partly because of anticipated economies and the great volume of production which we have had over a period of months and partly because of our excellent outlook for next year. Wage increases cannot be collected from the public, nor can they be taken out of the quality of the product; they have to be made up by better management of the work. That is the way we intend to justify this increase."

Explaining the phrase "the salary roll was raised five per cent," Edsel Ford pointed out that while a five-cent-an-hour increase in shown in the 40-cent-a-day boost between the $7.20 and $8.40 classifications, other increases such as a raise from $6.40 to $7.20 and in the case of others between $8.40 and $10 a day, made the increase average five per cent.

Asked whether the wage increase presages a similar increase in the cost of Ford products, he replied emphatically that it would not.

"While this wage increase is, in a way, linked up with President Hoover's program for stabilizing business, there is no direct connection between the two," he said. "The president has been working with industrial leaders to continue normal business and to get capital interested in undertaking new enterprises."

"What we are trying to do here is to make some contribution to a continuance of normal business conditions by putting a bit more buying power into the pockets of workmen. Locally, at least, the addition of approximately $15,000,000 of buying power a year should be some stimulus to industries and general business."

DR. WILL DURANT TO LECTURE HERE ON DECEMBER 12

Reserved seat tickets for Dr. Will Durant's lecture at the Atlanta police department on December 12 will be placed on sale today in the book departments of Ricks' and Davidson-Paxon Company, it is announced by officers of the Junior Hadassah of Atlanta.

"Persons who have purchased tickets from the committee engaged in selling these tickets will exchange them for reserved seat coupons at either of these stores," said Miss Rae Rosenberg, president of the Junior Hadassah. "Hundreds of these tickets have been sold, and there is evidence of a considerable demand from out-of-town folk who desire to hear Dr. Durant."

"Our Changing Morals" will be the title of Dr. Durant's lecture here, Miss Rosenberg stated. Dr. Will Durant, former teacher at Columbia University, gained international fame a few years ago by his book "The Story of Philosophy."

"CONNECTING LINK" TO BE DISCUSSED BY REV. MOOR TODAY

The tenth lecture in the Rev. N. R. High Moor's series on "Religion and Life" will be given at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the St. Luke's Episcopal church. The subject will be "The Link That Connects."

Veteran Signal Operator At Police Station Retires

Hardeman Anderson Dendard, veteran member of the Atlanta police department and the oldest police signal operator in the south, who has been granted a half-pay pension by the mayor and city council.

BY T. K. JONES.

After 28 years of service with the Atlanta police department, Signal Operator Hardeman Anderson Dendard today is just another citizen.

A half-pay pension recently granted him by city council and approved by the mayor became effective Tuesday, and for the first time since 1901 the big call board at Decatur street headquarters was without the most capable and colorful attendant it has ever known.

Two hundred men on the night watch—many of them his lifelong friends—no longer will hear the clear, calm "O. K." which for more than a quarter-century has drifted through the circuit when the "box is pulled" every hour . . . but in its place the stronger and more excited voice of a young officer—just starting as an operator—who might easily mistake McGarity for McCarty, or even Murphy for Morrow until he gets familiar with things. But even he, Hardeman Dendard, the oldest police operator

Asked how many telephone calls he had answered since joining the department, Dendard after a brief manipulation of pencil and paper "conservatively" placed the number at 10,242,000—that is, the official calls. "There have been more, I'm sure," he declared.

Although through policing, Dendard is not through working. "I am going to rest a little while," he told reporters Tuesday, "and then get a light job somewhere. Losing my left leg at the age of 21, because of an infection, has never bothered me—I even got on the force without it—and I am not to start worrying now—there is plenty of work I can and will do."

He is 58 years old and lives at 1245 Hardee street—alone. His father, Wiley F. Dendard, also a retired city employee, is 87 years old and lives at 190 Garnett street.

AUDITORS TO COVER STATE IN INTEREST OF NEW SALES TAX

Two auditors of the state tax commission have been designated to do field work for the commission in December and early January, in the interest of obtaining the co-operation and good-will of merchants and manufacturers toward the gross sales tax, it was announced Tuesday.

The two, M. N. Sims and Sam Talley, will work in Atlanta through the present week. Talley will continue in Atlanta this month while Sims is assigned to cities and towns in the eastern section of the state. They will answer questions and give advice relative to the tax in their interviews with businessmen. R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, described the assignments as "good-will agents."

HOUSE IS READY TO SPEED TAX CUT

Gets to Work Immediately Upon Receipt of Hoover Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Congress prepared for rapid action on the $100,000,000 income tax reduction program after its enactment was formally recommended today in President Hoover's annual message.

Hearings will be held on the Hawley resolution tomorrow before the house ways and means committee, and it will be reported to the house for action Thursday.

Quick action also was forecast, in the senate where Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, introduced an identical resolution to provide for a flat 1 per cent reduction on corporation and normal individual incomes of 1929.

Under-Secretary Mills, of the treasury department, will explain the measure at the hearings tomorrow. By special permission, the committee will report the bill tomorrow night.

No doubt of its passage in both branches has been expressed, there being no disposition to oppose the program in view of the agreement among party leaders of both houses upon it. Hawley predicted the resolution would be adopted by the house Thursday after brief consideration. As soon as it reaches the senate Chairman Smoot plans to set a date for hearings and the republican leaders have agreed to set aside the tariff bill for a day in order to act on the reduction resolution.

Recommending the reduction in his message, President Hoover said Secretary Mellon estimated the government would close the fiscal year 1930 with a surplus of about $225,000,000 and the year 1931 with a surplus of about $125,000,000.

Although unusual circumstances had made it extremely difficult to estimate future revenues with accuracy, Mr. Hoover said he believed "congress will be fully justified in giving the benefits of the prospective surpluses to the taxpayers, particularly as ample provision for debt reduction has been made in both years through the form of debt retirement from ordinary revenues."

Pointing out that future revenues were uncertain and the indicated surplus of 1931 was comparatively small, he said the relief to the taxpayers should be provisional and apply only to 1929 incomes.

Woman Recovering After Lovers Die In Murder-Suicide

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 3.—(AP) Mrs. Iva Mae Miller, divorced wife of a railroad freight conductor, was recovering today from a pistol wound in the leg and shock from the murder of Marmaduke Ward and the suicide of Vernis Morgan, her friends.

She was wounded last night when Morgan, 20-year-old lawyer, broke through a French window into a dining room where Mrs. Miller was dining as the guest of Ward and poured five pistol bullets into Ward's body while he sat at the dinner table. Morgan then fled to the street and while Ward was dying in the arms of the woman, fired two shots into his own head and fell mortally wounded. He died early today in a hospital.

REPEATS AUDIT DEMAND

Mrs. J. E. Andrews Writes to Mayor.

Charging that city council is attempting to sidestep the issue by claiming that the city warden does not handle any funds and that it will cost $2,000 to audit the books of that department, Mrs. J. E. Andrews, president of the Atlanta Women's Civic Council, Monday addressed the following communication to Mayor I. N. Harpade and council:

"To the Hon. Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta:

"We have asked for an audit of the benevolent fund, $40,500, appropriated for that purpose during this year—1929—out of the income of the city of Atlanta. We also asked for what purpose the annual request of $1,500 from H. T. Inman has been used, and we insist upon knowing.

"It does not alter the situation as to who has spent the money, whether the city warden or the city comptroller issued the checks. All we wish to know is for whom and what it was used. We wish this audit, even if it is necessary to get it from the comptroller.

"The Women's Civic Council made this request two years ago, and we make the charge that now, as then, an effort is being made by sidestep the issue by claiming that it will take $2,000 to audit the accounts, and that the warden does not handle the fund.

"Respectfully,
"MRS. J. E. ANDREWS."

PERMANENT RADIO COMMISSION ASKED BY CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Agricultural Situation Is Improving and Feeling Of Optimism Pervades That Industry.

treatment beginning with the statement that enforcement of the laws enacted to give effect to the eighteenth amendment was far from satisfactory. "We need to re-establish faith in the highest interests of our country are served by insistence upon the swift and even-handed administration of justice to all offenders whether they be rich or poor," the president said under the heading of law enforcement and observance. "That we shall effect improvement in the preservation of our institutions. I. is the most serious issue before our people."

"The order of the day is the law of the land, more than the mere machinery of law enforcement. The efficient use of that machinery and a spirit in our people in which the law is alike essential. We have need for improvement in both."

"However much we may perfect the mechanism, still if the flood of crime is itself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear, shall insist on selecting the particular laws which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country."

"His attitude may obscure, but it cannot conceal the only truth that the lawbreaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society. We can no longer gloss over the unpleasant reality which should be made vital in the consciousness of every citizen, that he who endorses or traffics with crime, who is indifferent to the punishment of the criminal or to the law performance of official duty, is himself the most effective agency for the breakdown of society."

Mr. Hoover specified three steps which he had concluded were necessary to bring about more efficient enforcement of prohibition. These are transfer to the department of justice of the functions of detection and "to a considerable degree" of prosecution now lodged with the prohibition bureau in the treasury department; relief of congested conditions by simplifying procedure for petty cases, and codification of the prohibition laws to avoid necessity of resorting to statutes more than 40 years old. He added that agencies charged with preventing smuggling should be organized into one border patrol under the coast guard.

Over-Optimism. President Hoover said that although the country had enjoyed a large degree of prosperity and progress during the past year, "the long upward trend of fundamental progress had given rise to over-optimism as to profits which was turning itself into a wave of uncontrolled speculation in securities, resulting in the diversion of capital from business to the stock market and the inevitable crash."

"Fortunately," he continued, "the federal reserve system had taken measures to strengthen the system against the day when speculation would break, which together with the strong position of the banks has carried the whole country through the crisis without impairment. The capital which has been hitherto absorbed in stock market loans for speculative purposes is now returning to the normal channels of business."

"There has been no inflation in the prices of commodities; there has been no undue accumulation of goods, and foreign trade has expanded to a magnitude which exerts a steady influence upon activity in industry and employment."

"The sudden threat of unemployment and especially the recollection of the economic consequences of previous crashes under a much less secured financial system created unwarranted pessimism and fear. It was recalled that past storms of similar character had been met with a trenchant of construction, reduction of wages, and laying off of workers. The natural result was the tendency of business agencies throughout the country to pause in their plans and proposals for continuation and extension of their businesses, and this hesitation unchecked could in itself

Highlights of Hoover's Message to Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Here are some outstanding passages in President Hoover's annual message to congress:

We are not only at peace with all the world, but the foundation for future peace age being substantially strengthened.

The test of the rightfulness of our decisions is whether we have sustained and advanced the ideals of the American people.

We need to re-establish faith that the highest interests of our country are served by insistence upon swift and even-handed administration of justice to all offenders, whether rich or poor.

The first duty of the president under his oath is to secure the enforcement of the laws.

Our laws are made by the people themselves; theirs is the right to work for their repeal; but until repeal it is an equal duty to observe them and demand their enforcement.

We still have marines on foreign soil. . . . In a large sense we do not wish to be represented abroad in such manner.

To preserve internal order and freedom from encroachment is the first purpose of government.

The finances of the government are in sound condition.

We cannot fail to recognize the obligations of the government in support of public welfare but we must incidentally bear in mind the burden of taxes and strive to find relief through some tax reduction.

There is no fundamental conflict between the interests of the farmer and the worker. . . . Nor is there any real conflict between the east and the west on the north and the south.

I do not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose.

Intensify into a depression with widespread unemployment and suffering.

"I have, therefore, instituted systematic, voluntary measures of co-operation with the business institutions and with state and municipal authorities to make certain that fundamental businesses of the country shall continue as usual, that wages and employment be maintained. Due to the enlarged sense of co-operation and responsibility which has grown in the business world during the past few years the response has been remarkable and satisfactory."

"We have canvassed the federal government and instituted measures of prudent economy in such a way that should be helpful, and upon which the different departments will make some early recommendations to congress."

Re-established Confidence.

"I am convinced that through these measures we have re-established confidence. Wages should remain stable. A very large degree of industrial production and suffering, which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented. Agricultural prices have reflected the returning confidence. The measures taken must be vigorously pursued until normal conditions are restored."

Discussing the tariff, the president repeated the portion of his message submitted to the special session of congress in which he asked for an effective tariff on agricultural products, and "some limited changes" in industrial schedules. He stated that he desired "the broad principle" of the flexible provision of the pending bill to be retained. Mr. Hoover's message to congress was disregarded by the senate.

No real conflict, the chief executive said, existed between the east and the west, or the north and the south. Bonds which hold them together, he added, "should not and cannot be shattered by differences of opinion flowing out of discussion of a tariff."

Referring to the forthcoming London naval limitations conference, the president said, "We hold high hopes that success may attend this effort."

Upon this conference, he added, will depend such moderation as this country may make in naval expenditure.

"If we shall be compelled," Mr. Hoover asserted, "to undertake the naval construction implied in the Washington arms treaty as well as other construction which would appear to be necessary if no international agreement can be completed, we shall be committed to a total expenditure of $1,200,000,000 besides the necessary further increase in costs for the program."

Mr. Hoover contended that the country "can well be deeply concerned" at the growing expense of naval armaments. While his forces were comparatively small, he said, yet American expenditures are in "excess of the most highly militarized nations of the world."

Farming Improving.

The agricultural situation, the president said, "is improving." He added that farm leaders had assured him "that a large measure of confidence is returning to agriculture and that a feeling of optimism pervades that industry."

Declaring that "expensive rents and inadequate facilities are handicaps, not economy," Mr. Hoover recommended a more liberal public buildings program for the district of Columbia and generally throughout the country. It would be helpful in the present economic situation, he said, if this work were undertaken at an early date.

The president detailed the difficulties always encountered when reorganization of the government service is suggested, asserting that both officials and organizations are jealous of their positions and influence, frequently seek to prevent changes. He said he has no hope but for congress to reorganize to the chief executive upon approval by a joint committee of congress, or with reservation that congress could make his changes within a limited period.

More firmly entrenched relations with Latin American countries through strengthening of American representation in those nations was promised by Mr. Hoover. He announced that he would send to the senate soon the names of heads of diplomatic missions there "who speak the language" of the people to whom they are accredited.

The president in his address, under appropriate headings, took up the following other questions of importance:

Public Buildings.

"Under the provisions of various acts of congress $300,000,000 has been authorized for public buildings and the land upon which to construct them, being $75,000,000 for the district of Columbia and $225,000,000 for the country at large. Excluding $25,000,000 which is for the acquisition of the so-called 'triangle' in this city, this public building legislation provides for a five-year program for the district of Columbia and beyond for the country at large. Of this sum approximately $27,400,000 was expended up to June 30 last, of which $11,400,000 has been expended in the district of Columbia."

"Even this generous provision for both the district of Columbia and the country is insufficient for most pressing governmental needs. Expensive and inadequate facilities are ex-under study, and if legislation should prove necessary the subject will be presented to the congress. In the meantime I recommend that the congress should consider the desirability of authorizing further expansion of the South American services."

Commercial Aviation.

"During the past year progress in civil aviation has been remarkable. This is to a considerable degree due to the wise assistance of the federal government through the establishment of a civil aviation administration by the department of commerce and the mail contracts from the postoffice department. The government-improved airports now exceed 25,000 miles more than 14,000 miles of which will be lighted and equipped for night flying operations by the close of the current year. Airport construction through all the states is extremely active. There are now 1,000 commercial and municipal airports in operation, with an additional 1,200 proposed for development."

"Through this assistance the nation is building a sound aviation system, operated by private enterprise. Over 6,400 planes are in commercial use, and 9,400 pilots are licensed by the government. Our manufacturing capacity has risen to 7,500 planes per annum. The aviation companies have increased regular air transportation until it now totals 90,000 miles per day—one-fourth of which is flown by night. Mail and express services now connect our principal cities, and the question of passenger transportation have been inaugurated, and others of importance are imminent. American air lines now reach into Canada and Mexico, Central America, Central America, and most of the important countries of South America."

Banking System.

"It is desirable that congress should consider the revision of some portions of the banking law."

"The development of 'group' and 'chain' banking presents many new problems. The question naturally arises as to whether it should be expanded without restraint these methods would dangerously concentrate control of the banking system in the hands of a few individuals. It is in any event seriously threaten one of the fundamentals of the American credit system—which is that credit should be distributed throughout the country. The government should be controlled by persons within those areas which furnish the deposits and thus be subject to the whims of local interest and public opinion in these areas. To agree, however, this movement of chain or group banking is a groping for stronger support for the banks and a more secure basis for these institutions."

"The growth in size and stability of the metropolitan banks is in marked contrast to the condition of the country districts, with its many failures and the losses these failures have imposed upon the agricultural community."

"The establishment of a national bank of national banks in great commercial centers in favor of state charters indicates that some conditions surround the national banks which render them less effective in the service of the nation and their withdrawal results in weakening our national banking system."

"It has been proposed that permission be given to a national bank of national banks to engage in branch banking of a nature that would preserve vitality in limited regions the local responsibility and the control of such credit institutions."

"All these subjects, however, require careful investigation and it might be found advantageous to have a joint committee embracing members of the congress and other appropriate federal officials for subsequent report."

Electric Power Regulation.

"The federal power commission is now comprised of three cabinet officers, and the duties involved in the complex conduct of the growing responsibilities of this commission far exceed the time and attention which these officials can properly afford to devote to the task. It is recommended that the commission be given the appointment of full-time commissioners to replace them."

"It is also desirable that the authority of the commission be extended to certain phases of power regulation. The nature of the electric utilities industry is such that about 80 per cent of all power generated and distributed is intrastate in character, and most of the states have developed their own regulatory systems to certificates of convenience, rates and prices of such utilities. To encroach upon their authorities and responsibilities would be an encroachment upon the rights of the states. It is recommended that the federal power commission be given the right to act on its own motion in case of disagreement or nonaction by the states."

Radio Commission.

"I recommend the reorganization of the radio commission into a permanent body from its present temporary status. The requirement of the present law that the commissioners be appointed from specified sources should be abolished and a general provision made for their equitable selection from different parts of the country. Despite the effort of the commissioners, the present method develops a public insistence that the commissioners are specially charged with such duties as radio affairs in the zone from which each is appointed. As a result there is danger that the system will degenerate from a national system into a regional system with varying practices, varying policies, competitive tendencies, and consequent failure to attain its utmost capacity for service to the people as a whole."

Motor Vehicle.

"It is most desirable that this question should be disposed of. Under present conditions the income from these plants is less than had otherwise been secured for its use, and more especially the public is not securing the full benefits which could be obtained from these plants."

"It is my belief that such parts of these plants as would be useful and the revenues from the remainder should be dedicated for all time to the farmers of the United States for investigation and experimentation on a commercial scale in agricultural chemistry. By such means advancing agriculture of the country can be systematically applied to agricultural need, and development of the chemical industry of the Tennessee valley can be assured."

"I do not favor the operation by the government of either power or manufacturing business except as an unavoidable by-product of some other major public purpose."

"Any form of settlement of this question will imply entering upon a contract or contracts for the lease of the plants either as a whole or in parts and the reservations, of facilities, products, or income for agricultural purposes. The extremely technical and involved nature of such contracts dealing with chemical and electrical enterprises, added to the unusual difficulties surrounding these special plants, and the rapid commercial changes now in progress in power and synthetic nitrogen manufacture, lead me to suggest that congress create a special commission, not to investigate and report as in the past,

BILL WOULD COMBINE VETERANS' AGENCIES

Congressman Sees Benefit for Veterans Through Unification.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—Consolidation of all government agencies dealing with war veterans with the veterans' bureau would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Chairman Williamson of the house expenditures committee.

The president would be authorized by the measure to transfer the pension bureau from the interior department, and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers to the jurisdiction of the veterans' bureau.

Under the plan, annual expenditures of the government amounting to $750,000,000 for relief and benefits to former members of the military and naval establishments would be placed under the director of the veterans' bureau.

Williamson said consolidation of veterans' activities had been under consideration by his committee for two years, adding its purpose was to effect important administrative changes and economies and to equalize the service rendered the veterans.

Williamson asserted that at present there were many inequalities in the treatment of veterans which would be remedied by the proposed bill.

Immigration.

"Restriction of immigration has from every aspect proved a sound national policy. Our pressing problem is to formulate a policy to be followed by the limited number of immigrants whom we do welcome shall be adapted to our national setting and our national needs."

"I have been opposed to the basis of quotas now in force and I have hoped that we could find some practical method to secure what I believe would be a more equitable and just system of the immigrant as to physique, character, training, and our need of service."

"Perhaps some system of priorities within the quota could produce these results and at the same time enable some hardships in the present system to be cleared up. I recommend that the congress should give the subject further study, in which the executive departments will gladly cooperate with the hope of discovering some method as well as more fully secure our national necessities."

Veterans.

"It has been the policy of our government almost from its inception to make provision for the men who have been disabled in defense of our country. This policy should be maintained. Originally it took the form of land grants and pensions. This system continued until our entry into the World War. The congress at that time inaugurated a new plan of compensation, rehabilitation, hospitalization, medical care and treatment, and insurance, whereby benefits were awarded to those veterans and their immediate dependents whose disabilities were apparent within a brief period after the war are receiving compensation; insurance benefits have been liberalized. Emergency officers are now receiving substantial benefits. The doors of the government's hospitals have been opened to all veterans, even though their diseases or injuries were not the result of the war service. Today's announcements were made by institutions in Tampa, which, it was said, would make available to their 3,010 depositors about $43,818 on or about December 18.

SERVICE

*I*N THE Ford Motor Company we emphasize service equally with sales. It has always been our belief that a sale does not complete the transaction between us and the buyer, but establishes a new obligation on us to see that his car gives him service. We are as much interested in your economical operation of the car as you are in our economical manufacture of it. This is only good business on our part. If our car gives service, sales will take care of themselves. For that reason we have installed a system of controlled service to take care of all Ford car needs in an economical and improved manner. We wish all users of Ford cars to know what they are entitled to in this respect, so that they may readily avail themselves of this service.

FROM the very beginning, SERVICE has been the corner-stone of the Ford business. Far back in 1908, when the first Model T Fords were made, there were few people who understood the operation of an automobile and fewer places to which the purchaser might turn for help when repairs were needed.

Frequently in those days, Mr. Ford would deliver the car personally to the new owner and see to it that some arrangements were made to keep it in good running order. Usually he would find the best informed mechanic and explain the construction of the car to him. Sometimes, when no such mechanic was available, the town blacksmith would be pressed into service.

Then, as the business grew, capable men were appointed, in a widening circle of towns, to devote their entire time to the care of Ford cars. These men worked under close factory supervision and according to certain set standards.

For just as the Ford Motor Company was the pioneer in the making of "a strong, simple, satisfactory automobile at a low price," so it was also the pioneer in establishing complete and satisfactory service facilities.

For the first time in the automobile business it became possible for the purchaser of a car to buy parts quickly and readily and to have repairs made at a reasonable cost. Where formerly it had been the accepted practice to charge the highest possible prices for these repairs, a new policy was instituted for the protection of the owner. The unusual character of Ford Service was soon recognized as one of the outstanding features of the car.

Today there are more than eight thousand Authorized Ford Dealers in the United States alone, with thousands of others located throughout the world. Their mechanics have been trained in special schools conducted by the Ford Motor Company and they have been equipped with all the latest service machinery.

The well-ordered cleanliness of the shops and salesrooms and the uniform courtesy of all dealer employees are particularly appreciated by the woman motorist.

Wherever you live, or wherever you go, you will find the Ford dealer prompt and business-like in his work, fair in his charges, and sincerely eager to do a good and thorough job at all times.

His constant effort is to relieve you of every detail in the care of your car and to help you get thousands upon thousands of miles of satisfactory, enjoyable motoring at a very low cost per mile.

That is the purpose for which the Ford car was designed and built. That is the true meaning of Ford Service.

Passion Play Director
In City for Rehearsals

Five Hundred "Extra People" Called To Take Part in Rehearsal at Auditorium Tonight.

Alfred E. Wolff, personal representative of Georg Fasnacht, Sr., leader of the Freiburg Players, arrived in Atlanta Tuesday to direct rehearsals of the huge crowd of ensemble players who will appear at the auditorium all next week in the Freiburg Passion Play, and to supervise enlargement and arranging of the auditorium stage to fit the great stage settings used in the production.

Mr. Wolff announced that he will hold the first rehearsal for the ensemble at the auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight, and desires 500 men and women to take these parts in the great sacred spectacle.

All types of men and women are needed to fill out the silent parts in the great Passion Play cast. In Mr. Wolff's list, for instance, is the notation, "Four middle-aged women for 'weeping widows,'" "six big young men for Roman soldiers," "nine middle-aged and elderly men for disciples," "one good-sized boy for altar boy," "19 young girls for angels."

The second rehearsal will be held Friday night, but Mr. Wolff requests that all who would like to take part in the famous play apply tonight at the auditorium.

Conductor Enrico Leide has his 200-voice chorus almost ready for the Monday night opening of the play. Another rehearsal will be held tonight at Ampico Hall, at 7:30 o'clock, with probably two or three more before Monday.

Seats for all seven performances of the Passion Play to be given next week, six nights and a Saturday matinee, are now on sale at the Cable Piano Company box office.

VAGABOND HERO
REIGNS FOR A DAY
AT THE ERLANGER

Reminiscences of the most picturesque vagabond in history, with his knavish and roistering companions of the Paris taverns, originally portrayed in Justin Huntley McCarthy's romantic drama, "If I Were King," are carefully revived in that outstanding musical comedy triumph, "The Vagabond King," which comes to the Erlanger theater next Monday night, as the first offering of the season at Atlanta's Playhouse Beautiful.

The engagement is limited to one week, with matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

The company to be seen here has everywhere been received with the greatest enthusiasm, and critics in all leading cities have vied with each other in expressions of praise of the magnificent portrayals of Paul Keast as Francois Villon, of Vida Hanna as Katherine, as well as of all the other sterling members of the company. The opera is especially featured by an outstanding singing chorus, beautiful scenic effects and lavish costumes.

All in all, "The Vagabond King" promises to be one of the outstanding offerings of the season at the Erlanger. Mail orders are now being received, and beginning tomorrow at 10 a. m., the box office seat sale will start at the Erlanger. Tickets may also be had at Phillips & Crew Piano Company.

STIMSON ADVISES HARRIS AGAINST CUBAN CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(AP)—A spread of "dislike" over the pending tariff bill was noted by Secretary Stimson in a letter to Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, today relating to proposed negotiations with Cuba over its own tariff law on watermelons.

Secretary Stimson, in referring to the "large spread of dislike" in that country, attributed it to "comprehension that legislation pending in this country will result in a material increase in duties on products, especially sugar imported largely from Cuba."

Because of this situation, the state department head said he believed the present time inopportune to confer with that government over a suggested modification of its import duties applying against Georgia watermelons.

Senator Harris wrote to the secretary regarding suggestions from Georgia watermelon producers that Cuba be asked to pare down its tariff barrier during certain seasons. The Georgian pointed out that the watermelon season in Georgia follows that in Cuba and does not interfere with Cuban producers.

BRITISH EXPLORERS DEFEND BYRD'S CLAIM

Take Issue With Gran Who Made Light of Polar Flight.

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(P)—British explorers came to the defense of Commander Richard E. Byrd today against the reported criticisms of Major Trygve Gran, Norwegian explorer, who was a member of the Scott antarctic expedition. Major Gran was quoted in a Copenhagen dispatch to the Daily Mail as saying that the terrible mountain which Commander Byrd described was a fantasy.

Captain R. G. England, who commanded the Nimrod of Shackleton's first expedition in 1907, said that he could not understand Major Gran's reported statement.

"It is all the more extraordinary because Gran was one of Scott's men," said Captain England. "It would be nothing short of a miracle if Scott's men did not see mountains near the south pole. On the east there is the Queen Alexandra range, 15,000 feet in height, and on the west the Queen Maud range, which is about the same height. These mountains have been actually surveyed, named and measured."

Captain William Colbeck, who was a member of the Southern Cross expedition of 1898-99, said: "It is well known there are mountains near the south pole. Commander Byrd would probably see them from 100 miles away because of his height in his airplane. His was a magnificent flight."

BERLIN, Dec. 3.—(P)—After enthusiastic newspaper accounts of Commander Byrd's antarctic flight, the criticisms of the flight by Major Trygve Gran, Norwegian explorer, caused something of a shock in Berlin. The newspaper today showed that they were not ready to accept Major Gran's criticisms without more tangible proof.

Several remarks in Gran's statements show that to the national jealousy of the old style polar explorer of the modern aviator-explorer. The dispute can only be settled by testing Byrd's personal report," the Boersen Courier said.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said, "There can be no question that Byrd's flight expedition did not take place as Byrd described it. Gran's doubts are not sufficient to accuse of untruthfulness a man hitherto accepted as a serious explorer."

Foreign Markets Needed by South, Brown Declares

Development of foreign markets will prove to be of inestimable value to the manufacturers of the south and of the entire nation in the opinion of COLVIN B. BROWN.

Colvin B. Brown, manager of the commercial organization department of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who was in Atlanta Tuesday en route to Columbus, where he will attend a conference of the leading businessmen of that city. Mr. Brown will return to Atlanta Thursday, when he will be the principal speaker on the program of the luncheon meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In his 15 years of service with the national chamber, Mr. Brown has visited more than 100 Chambers of Commerce and trade organizations throughout the United States in his official capacity as an expert "organizer." He declares that the recent deflation of values on Wall Street may eventually prove to be a blessing in disguise if it will lead to a stabilization of business and stock values.

"There is enough knowledge and experience in this country to stabilize business and prevent prosperity peaks and periods of depression," Mr. Brown declared. "The only trouble is getting this knowledge properly applied."

He stated that there was nothing wrong with business today except a purely mental feeling of fear and uncertainty.

DR. DUREN ELECTED HEAD OF MINISTERS

Dr. W. L. Duren, pastor of St. Mark's Methodist church, has been elected president of the Evangelical Ministers' Association, it was announced Tuesday.

Other officers include: First vice president, Dr. C. R. Stauffer, pastor of First Christian church; second vice president, Dr. D. P. McGeachy, pastor of First Presbyterian church, Decatur; third vice president, Rev. Gerald Culbertson, pastor of West End Christian church, and secretary-treasurer, James Morton.

Through the years the custom has prevailed of electing its president in rotation denominationally. This custom has been set aside only once in the history of the organization when Dr. W. H. Major, pastor of Capitol Avenue Baptist church, was re-elected in 1922.

ALLEGED ASSISTANT OF AUBREY SMITH PLACED ON TRIAL

Trial of M. F. Jackson, alias "Stutz," on charges of harboring Aubrey Smith and Monte Wilson, escaped convicts, started Tuesday in Judge G. H. Howard's division of Fulton superior court. Smith and Wilson escaped from the state prison farm on July 25. Trial of Mrs. Bashlee Thompson, who also is charged with aiding the escapes, will be started when the Jackson trial is completed, it was said.

CARGO OF LIQUOR, SEIZED BY POLICE, GOES INTO SEWER

Four hundred gallons of liquor went down the sewer pipes at the Fulton county courthouse Tuesday following capture of the contraband early in the morning on Piedmont road.

County Patrolman A. A. Stovall and J. O. Casey discovered the rum in a truck which was abandoned by the driver on the approach of the officers.

FLORIDA GIRL CROWNED AMERICA'S HEALTHIEST

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(P)—Seventeen-year-old Florence Smock, tanned by the sun of her native Florida, and Harold Deatline, 18, an Indiana farm boy, were selected today as health champions of the United States at the National 4-H Club congress. They were chosen from 28 candidates, each a state champion. Miss Smock, who hails from Eustis, Fla., is a junior in the high school there, and a brunette. She stands five feet four and one-half inches in her medium high heels, and weighs 129 pounds. Brown eyes, with hair to match, naturally rosy cheeks and a small, delicate nose set off her oval, smiling face. She is the daughter of Charles Smock, of Lake county, Florida, and swims, dances and occasionally has "dates."

The boy champion is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deatline, of near Martinsville, Ind. He finished Martinsville High school a year ago and his ruddy cheeks and stalwart shoulders bespeak a life spent chiefly in the open at hard farm work. He is five feet eight and weighs 150; doesn't care much about dancing or "gadding around," as he calls it, and he doesn't smoke.

From the group of 28 candidates, selected as the best of 725 boys and girls attending the congress, five others were selected as blue ribbon winners. They are: Ferdinand Hasling, Illinois; Mary Virginia McNea, Mississippi; Hope Hadley, Iowa; Herbert Clutter, Kansas, and James Orr, West Virginia.

Congress Asked To Allow $215,000,000 for Buildings At Capital and in States

Eight Georgia Towns Among Those Which Would Receive Buildings Under Revised Plan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Congress was asked today to authorize expenditure of $215,000,000 for construction of postoffices and other federal buildings in cities throughout the country and especially in the national capital, in a bill introduced today by Chairman Elliott of the house public buildings committee.

This would bring the total authorized fund to be expended in the government's building program to $403,000,000. Elliott estimated this to be sufficient to take care of a large portion of the proposed construction of department buildings in the District of Columbia, and to provide postoffices for all cities in the country having postal receipts of $20,000 or more annually that are not at present equipped with suitable buildings.

In addition it is expected also to care for the needs of about 40 towns with postal receipts between $10,000 and $20,000 where sites already have been secured.

The Elliott bill would divide the authorization so that $115,000,000 would be expended within the District of Columbia and the remaining $100,000,000 would be allotted to outside cities.

Included in the proposed program in the capital are new structures to house the labor, justice, army and navy departments, an annex to the treasury department and buildings for the government archives and independent offices.

Secretary Mellon would be authorized, in an effort to expedite the erection program, to employ private architects when necessary in designing the new buildings.

One hundred and forty-one cities with postal receipts of $40,000 or more that were omitted in the allocation of the $248,000,000 authorization, but which were recommended last February for new structures, would be among the first considered if congress should approve the new authorization. Along with these, 537 cities with postal receipts between $20,000 and $40,000, likewise omitted in the first authorization but recommended for improvements, would be considered for new buildings.

The authorization also would enable the treasury and postoffice departments to make additions and improvements to existing buildings in many cities where new structures are not needed.

A similar bill was introduced in the senate by Chairman Keyes, of the senate public buildings committee, among Georgia towns which would receive new buildings under the revised provisions are East Point, Decatur, Rossville, Monroe, Sandersville, Madison, Toccoa and Waynesboro. The first two named fall in the class for towns having annual postal receipts of $20,000 to $30,000, the others receipts of less than $20,000.

NEW DAIRY MERGER TO SPEND MILLION IN FLORIDA PLANTS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 3.—(P)—Approximately $1,000,000 will be spent in Florida on dairy industry following a merger of the Foremost Dairy Products, Inc., with Southwest Dairy Products, B. G. Lewis, president of the former corporation, said today.

Mr. Lewis made the announcement on the eve of his departure for Hot Springs, Ark., where officials of the two companies will confer. He said the program called for expenditures of about $30,000,000, of which about one million will be spent in this state. Announcement of the merger was

A DISTRESS SIGNAL

Captain Jones fished the letters out of his pocket. Kathleen sat down and began to read. She had gone through a paragraph before she realized that the letter was not for her, and by this time she didn't care! She read every word with attention.

Examining the other envelope, addressed to Bruce, she noticed that the typing was the same. She managed to open it carefully without breaking the flap. It was a shorter note to her, just as she suspected.

For some minutes she sat there, thinking hard. She knew everything now, understood things which had not previously been clear. Of course she had realized even on the drive up that there was nothing between Bruce and Suzanne. But she had never been able to understand what had caused them to run away together. If Bruce had flirted with Suzanne, she wondered why he didn't continue, and this had been puzzling her. Now she knew and saw everything.

There crossed her face presently that special smile which she had for anything that touched her. Poor Tom! How helplessly he had poured his heart out! How good he was!

And yet he was a man. Though she didn't sympathize with Suzanne in her rigorous exclusion of the interests except herself, nevertheless Kathleen was swayed by a certain unconscious loyalty. And as for Bruce—she pursued the musing, and came to herself. But there was a certain tenderness in her humorous eyes.

Captain Jones still fussed about his engine. "What's wrong with the engine, Captain?" she asked.

"Soon as I get this playguy thing together again."

"I want to go with you. Just wait till I go up to the house and change my things."

She returned to find the house still empty. She listened, but she could not hear Bruce's ringing through the woods now. Hastily she transferred the two letters. Though the flap of the envelope addressed to Bruce was unbroken, the maulage was of course dry. Going into the kitchen, she mixed a little flour and water paste, and fastened the flap back.

She got into a tweed traveling dress and put on a hat for the first time since she had been on the island. As she started for the door, Bruce came up the path. She handed his letter to him. He took it without even glancing at it, his eyes fixed on hers. He looked startled, as if he had been blurted out in a voice which did not sound like his.

His distress was obvious. She shook her head, while a sense of abiding pleasure ran through her.

"Just to the mainland to do some shopping."

"You'll come back?" he demanded, still with anxiety in his face.

"I'd hardly run off from Suzanne without telling her," she murmured, and started for the cove.

It was a rough voyage. Had there been much more of it she would have felt queasy, if not sick. She was glad to get out on Captain Jones' rickety pier, though the land rocked a little to her disturbed eyes.

It was past 2, she noticed. "I'll wait till about 5 and she'll be like glass."

"Oh, I won't be that long even."

She turned her steps to the quiet hotel, and explained what she wanted. Soon she was in a bleak white room, waiting for long-distance to call back.

It was only a few minutes before the phone bell jangled.

"Hello—hello!" she said loudly. "Hello," said Tom Davis in New York. "Who is that—Kathleen—is this Kathleen? . . . What's happened?"

"Nothing—nothing at all, Tom. Can you hear me? I'm just being extravagant because I don't know what else to do with all my money. Just wanted to hear your voice."

"Did you get my letter?"

"O, yes, I got your letter."

"Tom, will you tell father I'm all right? I meant to write to him, but I've put it off."

There was a pause. She heard his voice once more, less controlled this time.

"How—how is Suzanne?"

"O, fine! She was upset at first. But she's steady. And now you and I are both quite happy."

"What?"

"There's been a change now—different from when they started. I see so little of them now because they're always together. . . . Hello, hello! Tom! But the connection had been cut off, and she couldn't get him back."

Inside the office of the Galbraith Linoleum Company Old Man Galbraith was at that moment engaged in giving a pointless lecture to his scapegrace son.

"I'll tell you this time, but it's the last time, Joe. The trouble with you is you've been spoiled—you've always been given all the money you wanted, and now you don't appreciate what it means to earn it."

When I'm gone and the business is yours, you'll find out perhaps. You've got to be steady, and now you don't come into the office any old time of day!

Joe listened patiently, waiting for his father's checkbook to end a lecture, the details of which were already familiar to him. But this time the lecture included an example.

"Why I'd sooner trust the business to your friend, Davies, there, and let him pay you a percentage. He has his heart in the work. Never misses an hour—or comes to me for a vacation, or slights his job. In fact—"

The door of Mr. Galbraith's office was rudely pushed open. A young man with wild staring eyes, a blushing face, and hands he did not seem to know what to do with, came in like a cyclone.

"Mr. Galbraith, I've got to leave town right away; I—this is very important!"

"But that Donaldson order—I was counting on you."

"Can't he wait, sir. I've got to go!"

"Very well—if you have to, Mr. Davies, you have to. Old Man Galbraith's tone was not too cordial. "When are you leaving, by the way?"

But he was not answered. Tom had left already.

The launch was plunging its way through calm waters. Though it was not yet 5, Captain Jones' prediction had been correct as to the weather. Kathleen, sitting in the bow of the small boat, with the sunlight beating upon her, looked towards the island lying on the windless seas.

She had occupied her time in leisurely fashion after her long-distance call to Tom. She had lunched at length in the hotel, bought a spool of thread and all available newspapers, inspected the town library and the oldest church.

She was a little thoughtful about that phone call. She realized that Tom must be lonely enough to imagine anything. The distress in the letter she had accidentally received had been too evident.

JUNIOR LEAGUE TO PRESENT XMAS MARIONETTE SHOW

Varied Activities of League Feature Driving Club Meet

A marionette performance for the enrichment of charity will be presented by the Atlanta Junior League during Christmas week, being announced at the general meeting of that organization which was held yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club, with Mrs. John Knox, president, presiding. The marionette performance, which was given in November at M. Rich & Brothers Company, will be repeated at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, December 7, in view of the outstanding success of the previous performance. It was stated by Mrs. Wiley Ballard, delegate to the Junior League Children's Theater conference to be held next week in Chicago, Ill., who reported on marionette activities. Mrs. Ballard was elected delegate to the conference at the November meeting of the league.

Encouraging reports on the work to forward the Junior League Follies to be presented by the organization at the Erlanger theater in February were made by Miss Palmer Dallis, program chairman; Mrs. Robin Adair, cabaret chairman; and Mrs. Grady Black, who is in charge of the cast.

"Aviation" will be the subject of the next number of the Junior League Magazine, it was announced by Mrs. Rutherford Ellis, Atlanta editor of the publication, who requested that the members contribute to this number. Mrs. Rhodes Haverty, arts and interests chairman; Mrs. Edward Van Winkle, Jr., chairman of provisional members; and Mrs. Beverly DuBose, chairman of the Junior League ward of the Henrietta Eggleston Hospital for Children, gave interesting reports.

Mrs. Z. B. Bolles, of New York city, a culinary expert of wide experience, will be the new manager of the Junior League tea room on Peachtree street, which will be operated on a profit sharing basis. With a view to affording the members of the league to devote more time to the forthcoming Junior League Follies and the ward at the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Children's hospital, colored maids have replaced them as waitresses in the tea room. The members of the league, however, will continue to act as hostesses and cashiers.

Officers of the Junior League who assisted Mrs. John Knox at the meeting Tuesday afternoon are Mesdames DeSales Harrison, first vice president; Edward Van Winkle, second vice president; Robert L. Foreman, Jr., corresponding secretary; Bolling Jones, Jr., recording secretary; and Humphrey Waggar, treasurer.

Druid Hills P.T. A. Meets This Evening.

Parent-Teacher Association of the Druid Hills school will hold a "daddies" meeting this evening at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium. President Harvey Cox, of Emory University, will be speaker and an interesting report will be given of the work done up to date by the association.

Nashville Belle To Be Guest Of Miss Coggins

Miss Argie Neil, of Nashville, Tenn., will arrive in Atlanta Sunday, December 15, to visit Miss Pearl Coggins at her home on Avery drive, in Ansley Park, this popular belle to be numbered among the most attractive visitors spending the Christmas holidays here. Miss Neil is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Neil, of Nashville, and is a representative of prominent southern families. Miss Neil made her debut in Nashville last winter at a brilliant reception given by her parents at which Miss Coggins was numbered among the out-of-town guests.

Miss Neil will be honor guest at a round of social gayeties during her visit and will be an admired figure attending the brilliant social affairs given at the club. The lovely visitor will share honors at the tea at which Miss Coggins will be hostess Wednesday, December 18, in compliment to Misses Catherine Norcross, Mary and Elizabeth Dodd. Miss Neil will be honor guest at a buffet supper at which Miss Emily McPhail will entertain Saturday evening, December 21, at her home on Huntington road.

Atlanta Matrons Are Honor Guests At Luncheon Party

Mrs. Edward C. Peters entertained at an informal luncheon yesterday at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue in compliment to Mrs. Leverett Walker and Mrs. W. L. Cosgrove, who have recently returned from an extended stay in Europe. Covers were placed for eight guests including close friends of Mrs. Peters and the honor guests. Mrs. Cosgrove and Mrs. Walker spent the past year traveling together in Europe, staying for several weeks at a time at the interesting cities and watering places on the continent. These two widely traveled matrons are numbered among Atlanta's most prominent and beloved members of society and are receiving a warm welcome by their wide circle of friends following their return from abroad. Both Mrs. Cosgrove and Mrs. Walker reside at the Georgian Terrace hotel, the latter leaving immediately after the luncheon yesterday for Rome, Ga., where she will spend several days visiting relatives.

Mrs. Joseph Tull Entertains at Club.

Mrs. Joseph M. Tull entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club, honoring her sister, Mrs. Richard Busbee, of Raleigh, N. C., and for Mrs. Kitty Holt Drewry, of North Carolina. The guests were Mesdames David Woodard, Horatius Buell, Fred Patterson, W. H. Brittain, Elizabeth T. Winslow, L. C. Fischer, Howell Cobb Erwin, Maude K. Jacobs, Edward K. CZAR OF RUSSIA

ACCORDING TO AGREEMENT, GERMANY RANCHED HERSELF BEHIND AUSTRIA, AND DECLARED THAT IF RUSSIA STRUCK AT HER ALLY, SHE WOULD DRAW THE SWORD AGAINST BOTH RUSSIA AND FRANCE.

The Story of the World War Efforts to Prevent War

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

ENGLAND, WHOM THE TEUTONS BELIEVED, OR HOPED, WOULD REMAIN ON THE SIDE LINES, ASSUMED THE ROLE OF PEACEMAKER. SIR EDWARD GREY, BRITISH FOREIGN MINISTER, PROPOSED (JULY 26) AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE TO EFFECT A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN AUSTRIA AND SERBIA.

IT WAS PROPOSED THAT GERMANY AND ITALY SHOULD REPRESENT "THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE," WHILE ENGLAND AND FRANCE WOULD ACT FOR "THE TRIPLE ENTENTE." ITALY AND FRANCE READILY ACCEPTED THIS INVITATION, BUT GERMANY REJECTED IT. THE HOPE OF PEACE FADED. MONDAY—AUSTRIA DECLARES WAR ON SERBIA.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

MRS. REDDY SEES THE TURKEYS.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

When there's something to be done, Two are twice as good as one. —Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox could think of nothing but turkeys. All the day following his discovery of those turkeys on a distant farm Reddy thought about turkeys while he was awake and dreamed about them while he was asleep. It seemed to him that never in all his life had he wanted anything quite as much as he wanted one of those turkeys. He could hardly wait for jolly, round, red Mr. Sun to go to bed behind the Purple Hills. Just as soon as the first of the Black Shadows appeared Reddy was prepared to start.

"Come on, my dear," he said impatiently to Mrs. Reddy. "Where?" demanded Mrs. Reddy. "Why, to see those turkeys that I found last night, of course," replied Reddy.

"What's the good of going 'way over there when you know you can't get them?" Mrs. Reddy demanded. "Listen, my dear," said Reddy. "Over on that farm is just as good hunting as there is anywhere around here. We are sure of getting something to eat, even if we don't get a turkey; and there is always a chance that one of those turkeys may roost low enough for us to get him, or perhaps not go up in a tree at all. Come along, my dear; come along."

Mrs. Reddy hesitated. Then she decided that she would at least go over and see those turkeys. So off they trotted, Mrs. Reddy at Reddy's heels. And so at last they reached the farm where the turkeys lived.

Reddy stopped at some little distance from the farmyard. He had no intention of taking any unnecessary risks.

"What are you waiting for?" demanded Mrs. Reddy. "I want to see those turkeys."

"You'll see them," promised Reddy. "I don't want to go up there until those lights in that farmhouse go out."

If that farmer ever suspects that there are any foxes around, we shall never have a chance to get one of those turkeys. We must get one before he does.

"What are you waiting for?" demanded Mrs. Reddy.

So Reddy and Mrs. Reddy spent the time hunting mice down in the meadow. Mrs. Reddy had very good luck and this made her better natured. Yes, sir, this made her better natured. Reddy was not so successful, but he didn't mind. I'm afraid his thoughts were not on mice. His thoughts were on turkeys. By and by the lights went out. Mrs. Reddy was for going up there right away, but Reddy wouldn't. He wanted to be sure that everyone was asleep. Finally he led the way.

When he reached the orchard the moon was shining bright. Reddy led the way to a certain apple-tree over near the barn. "There, do you see 'em?" he whispered.

Reddy was watching Mrs. Reddy sharply. He saw the gleam that came into her eyes when she saw the 12 great birds roosting in the trees and he was satisfied. He knew that now he would have a willing partner in all his plans.

"My, my, my," whispered Mrs. Reddy.

dy, "how big they are! Do you suppose we could kill one even if we could get to it?"

"Trust me for that," replied Reddy. "Just let me get hold of the neck of one of those birds; that's all I ask. I believe one of those turkeys is roosting lower than he did last night. Now, my dear, what do you think of my discovery?"

"I think," replied Mrs. Reddy, "that we won't go home tonight. We'll stay somewhere around here until we get one of those turkeys."

"Just as you say, my dear, just as you say," replied Reddy.

SMART BOLERO.

There isn't any fashion any smarter for classroom than the bolero costume for the young miss of 8, 10, 12 and 14 years.

Style No. 310 is especially becoming with its all-around box-plaited skirt, which allows freedom for sports activities, and always so gracefully when its wearer moves. It is attached to a sleeveless long-waisted bodice that closes at center-back. The separate bolero has an attached Peter Pan collar and long sleeves with turn-back cuffs.

It is very effective in navy blue wool crepe dotted in red with vivid red crepe dotted in blue used for bodice.

Size 8 requires 2-1/8 yards of 40-inch material for bolero and skirt with 2-1/4 yards of binding and 1-1/8 yards of 40-inch material for waist with collar and cuffs.

Featherweight tweed in popular beige and brown tones with bodice, collar and cuffs of beige wool jersey is especially practical and smart.

Bottle green wool jersey with wide low-beige jersey worn with wide matching green suede belt is fetching.

Covert cloth in cocoa brown shade in self-checked pattern with matching shade wool crepe is very smart.

Orange-red sportswear linen, with white linen, tweed-like cotton print in red and white tones with white pique are smart tubbale combinations.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for pattern, you inclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new Fashion Magazine.

IOWA FARM BOY
WINS GRAND PRIZE FOR BEST STEER

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—(P)—Another of those Iowa farm boys who enjoys sleeping on a bed of straw beside his cattle led a steer of the prize ring at the International Live Stock Show today with a grand champion ribbon hanging from its ears.

The boy was Elliott Brown, aged 20, of Reese Hill, and the steer was Lucky Strike, a grade Aberdeen Angus calf. The pair of them survived the keenest competition in the history of the live stock show.

Brown was graduated from 4-H work last year and plans to enter college after Christmas. He said he slept in the barn with his cattle because he "belonged with them." He modestly admitted he had earned some $5,000 in his live stock work in the last few years. His father, John B. Brown, is recognized as one of the leading Aberdeen Angus breeders in the country. They live on a 360-acre farm at Reese Hill.

Other grand champions of the stock show were won by Purdue University, which exhibited the best wether in the sheep show and the Kansas State Agricultural school which won the ribbon for the champion barrow in the swine competition.

A veteran wheat grower whose farm nestles in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies became the new wheat king. He is Joseph H. B. Smith, of Wolf Creek, Alberta, who thought so little of his chances that he did not even come to the show. He sent his championship sample, a box of hard red spring wheat.

Mrs. J. W. Ware Issues Invitations to Reception Honoring Three Debutantes

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. John William Ware to an elaborate reception at which she will entertain Saturday afternoon, December 21, at her home on Huntington road in honor of Miss Phoebe Ellis and Misses Elizabeth and Mary Dodd, three popular debutantes of this season.

Mrs. Ware and the trio of honor guests will be assisted in receiving by Miss Emily McPhail, popular young daughter of the hostess. Assisting in receiving will be Mrs. Fay Pearce, Mrs. Roy Collier, Mrs. Nora Northern, Mrs. Edgar Neely, Mrs. George Lindner, Mrs. Ed Daly, Mrs. Frank Rosier and Misses Catherine Norcross.

A group of attractive visitors who will be the guests of Miss Emily McPhail, will also assist in receiving, the group including Miss Ruth Maddox, of Rome, Ga., and Misses Adelaide Koonce and Anne Deaton, of Columbus, Ga.

Invited to meet the debutante honorees are several hundred members of married and unmarried society.

Following the reception Miss Emily McPhail will entertain at a buffet supper in compliment to Miss Arlie Neil, of Nashville, Tenn., the guest of Miss Pearl Coggins. The guests will include a limited number of society's younger members.

"Did It for Children" Successful Appeal Of Woman Bootlegger

JONESBORO, Ark., Dec. 3.—(P)—Her plea that she "did it to support my children" won for Mrs. Guy Wade, 50-year-old widow of a deputy sheriff, suspension of a 90-day jail sentence in federal court today for selling liquor.

Mrs. Wade, appearing in court well dressed, entered a plea of guilty to the charge before Judge John M. Martineau.

She said that when her husband, a deputy sheriff, of Poinsett county, died a year ago he left in a building in the yard a large quantity of seized liquor. When she was pressed for funds she sold it in small lots, she said. Judge Martineau made no comment in suspending the sentence.

Miss Winston, Miss Norcross Make Formal Society Bows

BY MADAME POMPON.

HERE they were, standing in the Piedmont Driving Club ballroom, just where every one could see them, and wearing just the gowns every one wanted to see! Miss Adeline Winston and Miss Catherine Norcross' debut party, Monday afternoon, proved to be a very distinguished occasion. All the splendor of long satin court trains, all the bewitching beauty of tulle and lace, of large court-hall white ostrich and tortoise shell fans made the occasion one to be remembered. The two buds were also wearing shoulder length white kid gloves, the like of which have not been seen at an Atlanta function for 10, these many years. They were not, however, wearing the three Prince of Wales tips and the half-length tulle veils, prescribed, as part of the regulation English court dress, by the lord chamberlain. These, it seems, remained carefully packed away with other memories of the occasion on which the crasses aired Monday afternoon were first worn—the Court of St. James, Buckingham palace, where Miss Norcross and Miss Winston made their bow to King George V and Queen Mary of England.

Mrs. John M. Slaton, who was also presented last summer and was one of the guests of the afternoon, found much to talk over with the two debutantes. They were, for a while, busy comparing notes. Mrs. Albert Thornton and the former Alice Steele, of Atlanta, were presented a number of years ago—just how many I don't remember. Miss Frances Howard, the daughter of the late Troupe Howard, was presented last year also. These almost completes the list of Atlantans whose names are inscribed in the big visitor's book at Buckingham palace.

MISS WINSTON and Miss Norcross received their friends with the prettiest cordiality. Each was so occupied with her great presentation fan that neither had arm room enough to carry the usual debutante bouquets. They contented themselves, however, with shoulder bouquets of orchids—of four orchids, to be exact. Mrs. David Pressitt, one of Mrs. Winston's New York cousins, who was with the assisting party, wore a decidedly smart gown of white net embroidered in large cheneille polka dots. On her shoulder was a low of tulle. In the center of the tulle bow were the usual four orchids gracefully arranged and hanging half down in the back. Bouquets of corsage and otherwise, surrounding the girls, as well as floral offerings of all kinds. There was also a touchingly beautiful old-fashioned bouquet of forget-me-nots. The sender's name had been removed. When questioned about this sentimental reminder, other days, both Miss Winston and Miss Norcross began blushing furiously. But whether each was blushing merely to share the confusion of the other, no one could venture to say.

ATLANTANS are having a great deal to say of divorces, pro and con, these days. A certain very eminent Atlantian who had, after many years of vainly trying, finally succeeded in inducing his very lovely wife to enter a suit against him for a divorce—merely, it seems, as a matter of personal accommodation—is at present considerably in the doldrums. Just why nobody knows. Once this longed-for divorce was actually filed, once the first decree had been granted, the soon-to-be grass widow allowed himself the pleasure of selecting another wife. More than that, he actually, they say, became engaged to her. A short while ago it was actually the end that they had already been married. Telephones were ringing at a great rate. On examination of the records it was discovered, however, that the last decree was still pending. The rumors were consequently dismissed from the mind as the latest of idle gossip and the incident soon forgotten. Now, rumor has it, the whole thing is completely off. But whether the divorce is off, or the second marriage no longer being considered, nobody seems to know.

VERY attractive matron from a neighboring state, recently a fêted guest in Atlanta, has had a very varied matrimonial history. First she espoused a very proper young businessman in the town where she resided. Then she tired of him (or fell out with him, which is a part of the same story) and having fallen in love elsewhere, divorced him, married her new flame and took up her residence far enough away never to see her ex-husband, but sufficiently near by to hear of him occasionally. All went smoothly enough along until several years later. While visiting her former home, however, she met her first husband again, fell in love with him once more, decided he was much nicer than the other man, divorced her second husband and remarried her first with all the proper sentiments appropriate to the occasion.

The lady seemed, however, to be endowed with a singularly changeable disposition. She ran into her second husband by accident in due course of time, experienced the same mental reactions as heretofore, divorced her first husband for the second time and married her second husband again. So far things seem to be settled on a perfectly satisfactory basis for everyone.

If O. Henry were still a living writer one would naturally assume that he had borrowed his plot for the "Friendly Call" from this lady's life. His story is far-fetched enough. A man in a careless state of mind good naturedly engaged himself to a summer resort sweetheart. Then he telegraphed to his former cowboy pal to come and help him out of his predicament. The pal's idea of helping his friend was to run away with the girl and marry her himself. This he did from the most altruistic motives, merely to fix things up for the good natured one and get him out of trouble.

After struggling along for several years with the lady's temperament—she was given to tantrums—he wires his friend, who is now doing business in Mexico, that he can't stand it any longer, to come and take the lady out of his hands. There is another wild wooing, a midnight flight behind Texas ponies, the lady is gone, and the good natured one's debt paid. The husband left behind has everything going to suit him at last. He can't rest, however. He knows that, sooner or later, the call will come to take the burden back again. Between the two they battle and shuttlecock the lady back and forth, as a result of all of which she is continuously provided for and each of the two friends enjoy brief uninterrupted periods of peace and freedom.

We could not, of course, assume any such collusion on the parts of the husbands of the lovely lady from the neighboring state. But there is something decidedly funny about the situation. What puzzles me is how any two men would want to marry the same woman so often. The situation is pathetic in the extreme. Just what were her fascinations? How did she exert them? Being a sentimentalist, I assume she must be one of those remarkable women who, once loved, are never forgotten. There are few of this kind in the world. They are seldom good friends. They are invariably indifferent mothers, but they are the world's best artisans for the perfection of that almost entirely unknown species, the faithful husband.

Miss Florence Rice Appears On Broadway in 'June Moon'

Because of her relationship to prominent Georgians, Miss Florence Rice's appearance on Broadway in "June Moon," a smashing success this season, is of particular interest to Atlantans. Her mother was Miss Kate Hollis, of Americus, before her marriage, and they have often visited here as guests of Mrs. Robert Crumley and Mrs. Charles E. Sciple.

Of decided interest to Atlantans is the news that Miss Florence Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grantland Rice, is playing an important role in "June Moon," one of the smashing Broadway successes of this season. Talented Miss Rice, whose mother was Miss Kate Hollis, of Americus, was graduated from Miss Rice's school and also attended Smith college. Upon completing her education at the latter institution she sailed forth with the legitimate stage as her goal, because from her earliest childhood there was always the desire for a theatrical career, so that it is no wonder she has scored largely in her first appearance on Broadway.

"June Moon" is current at the Broadhurst theater in New York city, and is a modern, screamingly funny comedy in every respect. It is authored by Ring Lardner and George S. Kaufman, who have given the public an interesting slant on the problems besetting the life of a song writer, and Miss Rice creates most acceptably the role she has been assigned. The metropolitan press has given her unstinted praise for the clever manner in which she essays her part, and is very enthusiastic over her blonde beauty. Mr. and Mrs. Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Lardner are very intimate friends and are members of the social and literary colony residing at Garden City, Long Island, every summer.

Atlantans Attend.
Mr. and Mrs. William C. Royer and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins are among the Atlantans who have witnessed the production of "June Moon" and express themselves as being impressed with the work of this gifted young girl, who is certain to make rapid progress in her chosen career upon the professional stage. In visits to Atlanta, Mrs. Rice and Miss Rice are always guests of Mrs. Robert Crumley and Mrs. Charles E. Sciple, Mrs. Rice being a namesake of the latter well-known Atlantian.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 3.—Centering the interest, a host of friends throughout North Carolina and Georgia, was the wedding of Miss Lois Palmer Dobson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reese Dobson, and Wallace Scales, which was solemnized Thursday morning, November 28, at the First Presbyterian church in Greensboro, at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. Charles P. Myers, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and a few close friends.

The bride wore an attractive brown wool sports suit, with brown close-fitting hat, and accessories to match, and her corsage was of white roses and valley lilies. She is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dobson, and is very popular and is prominently connected in Greensboro, Augusta, and Atlanta. She attended Washington seminary in Atlanta and was a popular member of the graduating class of 1928, and is a member of the P. P. S. Society.

Mr. Scales is the son of A. M. Scales and is well known in Greensboro, being secretary and treasurer of the J. W. Mason Company. He attended school at Woodberry Forest school in Orange, Va.

The young couple left following the ceremony for Pinehurst, N. C., and points north, and following their trip they will make their home in Greensboro.

Miss Reagan Weds Mr. Gilmer At Home Ceremony December 22

Plans for the wedding of Miss Huldah La Frances Reagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hansford Reagan, to Harry Clifford Gilmer will be solemnized at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, December 22, at the home of the bride-elect's parents, 789 East avenue, N. E.

Miss Reagan has chosen as her maid of honor Miss Miriam McFae. Melton Gilmer, brother of the groom-elect, will be the best man. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, Milton Hansford Reagan. Miss Alice Sybil Reagan, sister of the bride-to-be, will be the junior bridesmaid.

Miss Lois Reagan, of Conyers, pianist, and Mrs. Jessie Peek, of Conyers, soprano, will render an interesting program of nuptial music preceding the ceremony. Lohengrin's wedding march will be used as the processional.

The young couple will leave afterward for a wedding trip. After January 1 they will be at home at 782 East avenue, N. E. Among the out-of-town guests who will attend the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Reagan, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr Reagan, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lee, Miss Agnes Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Peek, Mrs. Zack Almond, all of Conyers.

Miss Reagan is being entertained at a number of prenuptial parties. Mrs. H. I. Holtzendorf will entertain at a bridge party at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, December 11, at her home, 782 East avenue. Mrs. E. A. Abbott, of Adair street, Decatur, will be hostess for Miss Reagan, the date to be announced later.
